Taking Long Trek In Wheelchair

Legless Utah Adams Hits Trail

LAS VEGAS TO LEWISTON . . . It's a long way in a wheelchair.

Last Thursday a man who could be the last of the West's rugged individualists left Las Vegas, Nev., bound for Lewiston. When he gets hungry he eats on the trail, but the long trek has caused him to make some compromise. He hitches a ride when possible.

This may not sound startling, but consider that Utah Adams has no legs and he is pushing the distance in a wheelchair. He passed through Twin Falls Tuesday morning, stopping long enough to visit the local Salvation Army headquarters and to talk with a Times-News reporter and the paper's circulation manager, Harold Stiles.

Mr. Adams is "49 and a little bit," and looks like a rugged individual. He lost his legs in an accident years ago.

He calls highways "trails" and the trail from Las Vegas led through Elko and to Wendover, Utah. From there, he started back through Nevada, determined to make it to Lewiston. He got five miles out of Wendover and then was offered a ride by a bus driver.

At Wells, Nev., Mr. Adams left the bus and began wheeling his way north. He pushed the wheelchair for more than seven hours, covering 20 miles. Then he got another ride, which brought him into Twin Falls.

At 8 a.m. Tuesday he was on his way east on Main Avenue, headed for Highway 93 where he hoped to get a ride toward Boise.

On his wheelchair are all the things a man might need on the trail. Frying pans, a small amount of food and coffee, a blanket to pull about his shoulders when the nights get cool.

He was dressed in a green shirt, levi jacket and black, cowboy hat when last seen.

"Is it hard to push that thing?" he was asked.

"Good exercise."

Mr. Adams does not feel sorry for himself.

So somewhere out on the trail is a man pushing a wheelchair, probably whistling softly with the effort, and when he gets tired and there is no ride in sight he will build a fire, boil some water and drink his coffee while the world goes by.

Conference On Higher Education Set

A conference, aimed at establishing a Higher Education Association in Idaho, has been set for Nov. 17 at Boise College, according to College of Southern Idaho President Dr. James L. Taylor.

Presidents, deans and faculty members of schools in Idaho's higher education system are expected to attend the one-day meet. Dr. Taylor said classes at CSI may be let out for the day so all faculty members can attend.

The local president met some time ago with the Idaho Education Board to discuss the possibility of forming such an association.

Theme of the Boise meeting will be "professionalism and Higher Education."

The session gets under way at 10 a.m. and at noon Boise College will host a luncheon for participants.

Included on the program are Dr. Richard L. Willey, dean of the College of Education at Idaho State University; Dr. John Barnes, president of Boise College; Dr. Gilbert J. Carbone, executive director for Higher Education; Dr. G. Kerry Smith, executive secretary of AAHE, National Education Association; Donovan Douglas, director, research and special services, IEA; Dr. C. Wayne Hall, director of college and university relations, Washington Education Association, and Dr. Jerold Dugger, dean of the department of education at Boise College.

Dr. Carbone will moderate a panel discussion on current issues of higher education in Idaho. The organizational meeting of an Idaho Association of Higher Education will be presided over by Dr. Willey.

The move to establish the association has been spearheaded by Dr. Taylor and others throughout the state who feel that through such an association, ideas and problems can be exchanged by Idaho's educators.

Thieu Begins Term By Proposing Talks

SAIGON (AP) — Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu energetically began a four-year term as South Vietnam's elected president today by proposing peace talks with Hanoi, appointing a civilian associate of Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky to succeed Ky as premier, and opening the elected House of Representatives with a call for action not words.

Devoting the major part of his inaugural address to the problem of peace for South Vietnam, the 44-year-old president made plain that his offer to talk with the Communists meant no surrender.

Thieu insisted freedom and independence would be defended by his government and the Communist North must learn that aggression will not pay. His strong words made it highly unlikely that Hanoi would find his peace proposals more acceptable than previous offers North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh has rejected.

The 50-minute inaugural, with U.S. Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and representatives of 21 other nations applauding warmly, went off without a hitch despite fears of a Viet Cong attack. Security forces deployed over and around the city were the greatest ever known.

Some 50,000 troops and selected guests were massed for half a mile down broad Le Loi Avenue in front of the inaugural stands. Security was so tight, however, that ordinary citizens had to see the ceremonies on television or listen over the radio.

Thieu's speech—which Humphrey hailed as "a masterpiece—a great speech"—was largely what was expected. He promised a strengthened army, social reforms, a campaign against corruption and called for help for the peasants and a narrowing of the income gap between city and countryside.

The appointment of lawyer Nguyen Van Loc as premier was also expected, and was criticized in advance. Those who hoped to see Thieu broaden his government's political base by the appointment of some respected political figure were disappointed.

Loc, 56, is a French-educated specialist in criminal law who for the past year has been a "semicivilian" as chairman of the Army-People's Council, the group organized to give the military regime a semblance of civilian facade. It was generally ineffective.

Brush Fires Rage For Third Day In California

ORANGE, Calif. (AP) — Brush fires in six Southern California counties raged for the third straight day today, killing an elderly woman, forcing evacuation of thousands of residents and destroying scores of homes.

The flames, whipped by winds gusting up to 100 miles an hour, had destroyed more than 125,000 acres by early morning. Officials estimated total fire damage at more than $2 million.

The body of Abigail Blodgett, 81, was found Monday in the basement of her small Riverside County home five miles north of San Jacinto. Forest rangers said they thought her house was a barn and bypassed it when they went through the area warning residents of the approaching flames.

The largest of several blazes left 50 homes known destroyed in Orange County, southeast of Los Angeles. More than 5,000 persons were evacuated from the path of the 35,000-acre holocaust. Lucille Fegel, 67, was killed during the evacuation when she was struck by an unoccupied car rolling down a hill.

Officials closed 40 public and private schools in Orange County Monday, releasing 30,000 students.

In San Diego County to the south, three fires blackened 55,000 acres and destroyed at least 26 buildings. One blaze charred 35,000 acres in a 15-mile strip between Romona and Poway, destroying a dozen homes valued at up to $50,000 each.

Another San Diego County fire near Julian blackened 20,000 acres and several homes. A third fire, estimated at more than 200 acres, was started by sparks from the Julian blaze.

Sixteen structures, including five homes, were destroyed by a 35,000-acre firestorm in Riverside County.

In Los Angeles County, a 2,000-acre fire between two canyons in the Santa Monica mountains just northwest of Malibu destroyed two homes. A 650-acre fire in Topanga Canyon between Malibu and Los Angeles was reported contained with no structural damage or injuries.

A 150-acre blaze in Ventura County between Ojai and Santa Paula was reported under control.

An 800-acre fire began in Los Angeles County about 10 miles southwest of Pomona and spread east into San Bernardino County.

Two weeks ago more than 50,000 acres and 60 structures were destroyed by fires which swept through the mountans northwest of Los Angeles.

The size and ferocity of both the present fires and those two weeks ago were attributed by fire officials to high, gusting winds.

Rescue Workers Search For Victims Of Tornadoes

By VERNON GUIDRY

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP) — Rescue workers searched a two-mile strip of devastation today for more possible victims of two tornadoes that killed three persons, injured scores of others and caused an estimated $5 million damage.

Police said they feared other victims may be buried in the rubble.

National Guardsmen cordoned off the area after the tornadoes barrelled in off the Gulf of Mexico. The damage estimate was made by Mayor R. B. Meadows.

Twenty-five homes and a church crumpled as swirling winds cut two separate paths inward. Fifty-two persons were treated for injuries.

Hardest hit was a trailer park.

Mobile homes were bounced to pieces and rain-whipped wind scattered furnishings among uprooted pecan trees and overturned cars.

"I don't think we found all the bodies yet," said Gulfport Police Chief H.L. Hobbs. "There were trailers down there and we're just finding the wheels and the frames—they're just gone."

The twisters struck this coastal area without warning a half-hour apart between 7 a.m. and 8 a.m. The first hit at the harbor in Gulfport flipping 20 tractor trailer trucks parked bumper to bumper awaiting a load of bananas. Three drivers were hurt. An offshore dredge and a cat food plant also were heavily damaged.

The twisters were spawned by a cool front that moved eastward and spread severe storms from Louisiana to Florida.

One or more tornadoes ripped into Pensacola, Fla.—injuring 40 persons. The winds tore off part of the roof of an elementary school—where 150 parents and children were holding a Halloween party and broke several windows but no one inside was hurt.

Sheriff Bill Davis of Escambia County said a "lot of houses and business places were blown away."

The storm drove heavy rains into Alabama. Some seven inches fell in Mobile in less than 24 hours. The Weather Bureau said either a tornado or a waterspout ripped the side off a store and smashed 14 windows. No injuries were reported.

Several beach houses and buildings along the Alabama coast were badly damaged.

Efforts For Mideast Settlement Stymied

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.N. Security Council efforts toward a Middle East settlement appeared stymied today by new Israeli insistance on direct talks with the Arabs and refusal to pull back to prewar boundaries.

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban told Secretary-General U Thant Monday that Israel stands by its insistence on direct peace negotiations with the Arabs if any such talks are to be held.

Premier Levi Eshkol told the Israeli parliament in Jerusalem that new boundaries would have to be negotiated and Israel would not pull back to positions it held at the start of the June war.

Eban told newsmen at U.N. headquarters Israel's attitude toward two rival plans before the council—both of which would send a U.N. representative to the Middle East—would be determined by whether such a mission "prejudices the Israeli position."

The 10 nonpermanent members of the 15-nation council met twice Monday in an attempt to resolve differences between the two resolutions.

One proposal, drafted by Argentina, Brazil, Ethiopia, India, Mali and Nigeria, spells out specific principles for a settlement and asks the U.N. representative to "contact the parties concerned in order to coordinate efforts to achieve the purpose of the resolution."

These principles include Israeli withdrawal from all Arab soil seized in the June conflict and an end to the Arab state of belligerency against Israel.

The other resolution by Denmark and Canada states vague principles and asserts that no nation in the area should "persist in refusing to withdraw" troops that are on another's territory against its will.

Informed sources said Israel feels that the six-nation proposal calling for Israeli withdrawal from all captured territories would prejudice its case and rule out negotiations with the Arabs on boundaries.

Egyptian informants in Cairo indicated recently that direct talks with Israel are out of the question for President Gamal Abdel Nasser or probably any other Arab leader and will be for three or four years.

Manville's No. 9 Wife Files Suit

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — The late Tommy Manville's wife No. 9 sued in Westchester County Surrogate's Court Monday to try to keep wife No. 11 from inheriting the asbestos heir's estimated $20 million-plus estate.

No. 9, Anita Roddy-Eden, claims that her 1955 divorce from the millionaire playboy was invalid. She asked the court to award her a widow's share in the estate.

Judge Rules Legislators Are Entitled To Stipend

BOISE (AP) — A district court judge in Boise has ruled that legislators are entitled to a $3.50 a day stipend and ordered that the measure be retroactive to July 5.

The total due legislators by today is nearly $43,000 and is growing at the rate of $367,50 a day for all 195 members of the legislature.

The lawmakers voted themselves the stipend, but payment has been delayed because of a lawsuit filed in Fourth District Court contending the stipend was illegal and unconstitutional.

In a memorandum decision Monday, Fourth District Judge Charles R. Donaldson ruled that the measure is legal and constitutional.

One of four western Idaho legislators who filed the suit to stop state auditor Joe Williams from paying the stipend, Sen. Sam Kaufman, R-Boise, said Monday he didn't plan to appeal the decision.

The measure provides that each legislator be paid $3.50 a day for each day the legislature is not in session. The language of the bill was changed during a June special session to make the payment for "expenses incurred" rather than "services rendered" and a $325,000 appropriation attached.

The suit, filed by Kaufman and Sens. Fred Bagley, R-Boise; William Roden, R-Boise, and Phil Batt, R-Wilder, contended that it was illegal for legislators to give themselves an out-of-session salary.

In addition to the stipend, legislators receive $10 a day salary during the first 60 days of a session and a $25 a day expense allowance throughout a session.

No money has been paid because Williams was waiting for the court decision.

Viet Cong Lob Shells On Palace During Inauguration

By EDWIN Q. WHITE

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong lobbed three shells on grounds of the gaily lighted Independence Palace tonight as President Nguyen Van Thieu entertained Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and 2,000 other inaugural guests, but none of them was hit.

A fourth shell fell outside and three persons were injured.

A 60mm mortar, believed to have been the weapon, and three live shells were found by security men in an untenanted building, once used as a laundry, five blocks from the palace.

The shells landed in quick succession. The explosions shook the windows, but it was all over in a few seconds and the party went on. A dinner party for a smaller group later was carried out as scheduled.

The shelling was carried out despite the biggest security precautions in memory in and around Saigon.

Within minutes after the blasts went off, the sound of counterbattery fire could be heard in the edges of the city as South Vietnamese and U.S. guns blasted suspected Communist positions.

Flares from helicopters lighted the sky over the city and gunship helicopters clattered in low on the lookout for further enemy action.

Associated Press correspondent George McArthur, who was inside the palace at the time of the shelling, reported there was no thought of cancelling the reception or dinner. The guests took the incident in stride.

Last year on South Vietnam's National Day, Nov. 1, the Viet Cong hit the city with mortar and recoilless rifle fire during the parade, killed eight persons and wounded 45.

Another National Day parade is planned Wednesday.

Inside the palace as the explosions were heard were President Thieu and 2,000 guests, including delegates to the inauguration from 22 countries.

The blasts shook the windows of the palace but first reports indicated the building itself was not damaged.

One of the mortar rounds was said to have hit a guard post at the southwest corner of the palace grounds. Several cars were damaged by the blast and one account said an American Army colonel was among those hurt.

Reports from the palace a few minutes after the blasts said all rounds landed several hundred yards from the brightly lighted building.

No one was hurt inside the building.

"I was not alarmed, not at all," Humphrey told newsmen.

President Thieu and Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky had just left the ballroom to prepare for a state dinner within half an hour on an upper floor of the palace. The ballroom was still thronged with guests, including all of the foreign delegations.

Death Takes J. Knoppka At Age 106

WENDELL — John Knoppka, age 106, and one of the oldest residents of Magic Valley, died Monday noon in a Twin Falls rest home.

Mr. Knoppka, a native of Poland, had resided in the Wendell area since 1963 and has been in a rest home since coming to this area from North Idaho.

Born April 21, 1861 in Kopethava County, Poland, he came to the United States in 1902. He was married in 1881 in Poland to Jessie Videra. She preceded him in death many years ago in Pennsylvania. Mr. Knoppka resided in Montana for many years and in Orofino before coming to Wendell. A son and daughter also preceded him in death. He came to Wendell to be near friends, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Williams. He has no known relatives. He was a member of the Catholic Church.

Graveside services will be conducted Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. in the Wendell Cemetery. Father Stephen Hoffman, St. Jerome's Catholic Church, Jerome, will officiate. Weaver Mortuary, Wendell, is in charge of arrangements.

FAREWELL GIVEN

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP) — Southampton gave a cheering, siren-blasting and sometimes tearful farewell to the Queen Mary today as she sailed on her last voyage into a retirement in California.

Tire Comes Off School Bus, Bangs Into Cafe

PAUL—A large and wayward school bus tire created a bang of a grand opening at the newly remodeled Becky Ann Cafe in the downtown area here Tuesday morning.

The tire came off a school bus driven by Heyburn School Teacher Duane Harrison, rolled on highway 25 for a block, made a beautiful left hand turn, rolled another 200 feet, then crashed into the cafe's outside wall. Impact sent a juke box inside flying across the room, frightening the waitress, Cathy Heinze, who was inside alone.

The tire smashed a large hole in the wall, the juke box was damaged extensively, and two windows were shattered by the juke box.

Investigating City Marshal said there were no children on the bus at the time, and no one was injured. Mr. Harrison was on his way to pick up children for school when the rear, dual tires on his bus came off. One of the tires struck a mail box belonging to Dick's Flying Service, causing the mail box to fly on its own.

The cafe was opened five days ago. Total damage has not been estimated, officials said. The cafe is leased by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hill, and the bus is owned by the Minidoka County School District.

Another bus was brought to the scene to transport children to school.

Ground Station Commands Cosmos 186 To Soft Earth Landing

MOSCOW (AP)—Cosmos 186, one of two Soviet unmanned Sputniks which decked and separated Monday, made a soft landing on earth today at the command of a ground station, an official announcement said.

The use of a soft landing to end the mission seemed to confirm earlier indications that the docking was a rehearsal for a manned flight and the building in orbit of a huge orbiting space platform.

The announcement said Cosmos 186 was brought to an undisclosed spot on earth at 11:20 a.m. Moscow time (3:20 a.m. EST) after "automatic linkup and other scientific tasks."

The other unmanned Sputnik, Cosmos 188, continued to orbit earth, it added.

Earlier in the day the Soviet Union disclosed it had sent up still another satellite—Cosmos 189. It also continued in orbit.

Soviet scientists disclosed that the unmanned spaceship was sent into space Monday while another Sputnik rocketed up to dock automatically with another unmanned vehicle.

Soviet newspapers hailed the docking as a space first and Moscow newspapers proclaimed "Russians ahead again." But Dr. Edward C. Welsh, the White House's principal space adviser, said the United States has long had the capacity for an unmanned docking but did not bother to use it because of Gemini successes with astronauts at the controls.

Cosmos 189 raised to six the number of unmanned Sputniks put into orbit in six days, an unusual flurry of Soviet space activity on the eve of celebrations of the Bolshevik revolution.

There has been speculation the Russians would send up a new manned spaceship for the anniversary.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said Cosmos 189 was functioning normally, circling the earth every 95.7 minutes with 332 miles the maximum height of its orbit. No specific mission was announced for the craft, but the Soviets said it was "designed to continue space research."

Cosmos 186 and 188, which joined and then separated on command from computers 3½ hours later, apparently continue to circle the earth, but there was no indication if they would carry out further joint maneuvers. The docking Monday was a test for systems used in building stations in space, the Soviet announcement said.

It also seemed like an obvious preparation for what the Soviet space program wants to do next—form a space platform by joining together manned craft in orbit. But the new unmanned testing suggested a cautious attitude before cosmonauts are risked in space again. Spaceman Vladimir M. Komarov's death last April is believed by some observers to have occurred in connection with an attempted linkup.

Georgi Petrov, director of the Space Exploration Institute of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, called the unmanned link-up "of greater importance than the American experiment in manual docking of the space vehicle Gemini on the body of the carrier rocket."

He claimed it was technically more advanced than the American experiments and more economical from the point of view of the weight involved.

Twin Falls News In Brief

All PTA members eligible for the Life Membership dinner are urged to attend the event at 6 p.m. Thursday at the Holiday Inn, being held in conjunction with the state PTA convention here Wednesday through Friday. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Sherman Day, 733-4338.

Items sold at an auction to raise funds for the Idaho Youth Ranch at Rupert were donated especially for the auction, which was held at Twin Falls, and were not items donated for use of the boys at the ranch, Earl B. Peck, secretary of the ranch board of directors, explained Tuesday. He said some persons mistakenly thought items they had given for use at the ranch might have been sold at the auction.

Magic Toastmistress Club will meet at 6:30 p.m. Thursday in the Idaho Room of Grigg's Cafe.

Parents who have students at the University of Idaho and are interested in a bus to bring students home for Thanksgiving should contact Mrs. Jack Coggins, 733-7295; Mrs. Howard Allen, 733-6087, or Gerald Ridgeway, 423-5345.

$650 Grossed

HEYBURN — About $650 was grossed during the Heyburn combined carnival and chili supper held Friday night at the school, reports Mrs. John Gornik, publicity director.

Roger Brown was general chairman of the carnival and general chairman of the supper was Mrs. Golden Barlow. Proceeds from the event will go towards a playground project sponsored by the PTA.

Five-Day Forecast

Bright, sunny late October weather brought a warming trend to most of Southern Idaho yesterday. Temperatures will be generally mild again today and a little warmer than yesterday, particularly in the east.

High cloudiness spreading over Southern Idaho today is associated with a cold front to the north, near the British Columbia - Washington border this morning. There are indications that this front will drift southward far enough to cause some showers in the valleys and snow on the mountains in Southern Idaho with this precipitation most likely in northern and eastern sections. Precipitation is expected to be scattered and light in most valley areas.

Temperatures will be milder tonight, especially in eastern sections, but most of the district whould be 5 to 10 degrees cooler on Wednesday and colder again Wednesday night.

The extended outlook indicates variable cloudiness with little precipitation of consequence Thursday through Saturday with somewhat warmer temperatures near the end of the week. Mostly favorable weather for late harvesting and other field work are expected for the rest of this week. Showers Wednesday will likely cause some interruptions in eastern anl northcentral valleys, but these should be brief and in most areas should not become wet enough to cause extended delays.

Afternoon temperatures yesterday were in the upper 50s and lower 60s through Magic Valley, Camas Prairie and the Wood River Valley. Lows last night in these sections were in the upper 20s and lower 30s. Farther east highs ranged from the middle 40s to middle 50s with lows last night in the 20s.

Death Takes Mrs. Silva In California

GOODING — Mrs. Elsie Georgene Silva, 76, longtime Gooding resident, died Monday afternoon in the Hayward, Calif., hospital of a heart attack. She had been taken to the hospital the day before.

Mrs. Silva had been living with a son, Chester Silva, caring for her daughter-in-law the past two years.

She was born Feb. 22, 1891, in Portland, Ore., and attended schools in Toponis, now Gooding, coming here with her parents about 1891. On Feb. 22, 1909, she was married to Joseph W. Silva in Gooding. Mrs. Silva had lived here since.

Her husband died July 20, 1958. She belonged to the Gooding Assembly of God Church.

Survivors include three sons, Rev. Ted J. Silva, Modesto, Calif.; George Silva, Gooding, and Chester A. Silva, Hayward, Calif.; one daughter, Mrs. Bert (Maybelle) Walker, Gooding; 14 grandchildren, and 28 great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by two daughters, Mrs. Esther Sprizer, in 1964, and Thelma Silva in 1939.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Thompson chapel by Rev. Jack Foreman, Gooding. Last rites will be held in Elmwood Cemetery. Friends may call at the chapel Thursday until time of services.

Van Loc Is New Vietnam Premier

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam's government news agency said Tuesday attorney Nguyen Van Loc has been appointed premier.

The report by Vietnam Press lacked official confirmation from newly inaugurated President Nguyen Van Thieu, who is empowered under the new constitution to make the appointment.

The premier's post is secondary to the president, who holds the real executive power in the new government. The premier will have much to say, however, in the administrative day-to-day functions of the government. Loc is one of a half dozen civilians mentioned prominently in speculation for the premiership.

RUPERT GRADUATE

RUPERT—Delton (Ray) Tippets, Rupert, Modern Woodmen of America representative for the Twin Falls area, was graduated recently from a training school at Rock Isand, Ill., it was announced Tuesday. He will not take part in a 10-week training program.

Spending Holdback Has Been Removed

BOISE (AP) — A holdback in spending, effective during the current six-month period, has been removed from state agencies, Idaho Gov. Don W. Samuelson announced today.

But he told his news conference administrators have been asked to hold spending, voluntarily, to the lowest limits possible.

In the current six-month quarter of the biennium which began last July 1, departments and institutions were permitted to spend only 24 per cent of the two-year appropriation, instead of the normal 25 per cent.

In the six months beginning Jan. 1, Samuelson said, they will be permitted to spend the full 25 per cent, but will not be authorized to exceed that.

Whether the first quarter holdback is made up later in the biennium, Samuelson said, will be determined by conditions as they develop. He said the situation will be assessed at the beginning of each quarter.

At present, he said, revenue is exceeding slightly the anticipated amounts on which the 1967 Legislature based its appropriations.

On other subjects, the governor said he:

—Has had no word regarding approval or rejection of Idaho's application for about $750,000 in additional federal aid to assist in paying costs of fighting last summer's widespread forest fires.

—Plans further discussions with State Auditor Joe R. Williams regarding the setting up of new bookkeeping procedures for state agencies and institutions. Williams and State Budget Director James A. Defenbach have differed as to their responsibilities.

—Is continuing to discuss administrative procedure with the Fish and Game Commission but he replied "no comment" when asked whether his attitude regarding the commission as expressed last January has changed. At that time he said he was dissatisfied with the commission's work.

Children To Ask Funds For UNICEF

Tonight is Halloween and in addition to the trick or treats for candy and other goodies, Twin Falls youths will be taking part in the annual UNICEF drive.

Those asking donations to the United Nations children's fund will be carrying an orange and black collection carton bearing the UNICEF symbol. Funds collected go to help sick and hungry children in 120 underdeveloped countries. Residents are asked to contribute only to properly identified children.

Taking part in the drive will be youth groups from many local churches, the YMCA, Boy Scouts and others.

GOODING — Funeral services for Mrs. Elsie Silva, longtime Gooding resident, will be conducted at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Thompson chapel by Rev. Jack Foreman, Gooding. Last rites will be held in the Elmwood Cemetery. Friends may call at the chapel Thursday until time of services.

"Deception" Is Charged By Candidate

Intentional deception on the part of present city officials was charged Tuesday by Joseph Stumph Jr., candidate for election to the city council Nov. 7.

He said in an advertisement in the Times-News it was stated the city mill levy was reduced from 55.75 in 1957 to 42.5 mills in 1967. The advertisement further stated the city budget for 1966 was $727,500, Mr. Stumph said, and for 1967 $713,900.

"This is misleading and I believe it was intentional deception," Mr. Stumph said.

He added actual city expenditures for 1966 totaled $1,830,628 and for 1967 the figure was $2,286,661, according to a financial statement signed by City Clerk Constance Leiser and Commission Chairman Egon Kroll.

The candidate said after checking he learned the amount listed in the political advertisement represented only the amount raised by the tax levy. The additional $1,572,761 being spent this year comes from other sources. Salaries for the 186 city employes alone cost $713,900, he added.

"Mill levy manipulation," he said, "is a simple task for unscrupulous men. It would be easy to cut the local levy in half from 42.5 mills to 21.25 mills, just by doubling the value of all property. Whom do these men think they are fooling? Property taxes have gone up the past 10 years notwithstanding the reduced mill levy," Mr. Stumph stated.

TEMPERATURE OK

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Informants reported today that Pope Paul's temperature has returned to normal.

Heart Throb

CHICAGO (AP) — The "top ten" on the jukebox at Michael Reese Hospital consists of some real heartfelt sounds.

Push the buttons on the hospital's jukebox and out come the "lubb-dup" rhythm of the human heartbeat rather than music.

Dr. Alfred F. Fishman, director of the Cardiovascular Institute, dreamed up the idea to teach interns and residents how the human heart sounds in specific disease states and under normal conditions.

Birdshot, Not Water, Rains Down On Man

HAGERMAN — With clearing skies Saturday afternoon, Dean Williams, area farmer, was surprised to find it raining on him as he was checking his cattle late in the afternoon.

Only it wasn't raining rain, but birdshot instead. Mr. Williams was not injured, and no damage was done to property or livestock, but it isn't a very pleasant feeling to find oneself pelted with birdshot, however lightly it may have come down, he declares.

It didn't take him long to find the source of the birdshot which came from unidentified "out-of-state" pheasant hunters. Mr. Williams told them of the incident, took their license number and asked them to hunt someplace else in the future and to be more careful of where they were shooting.

Mr. Williams, like many other farmers and ranchers in the area, does not mind having hunters on his place as long as they ask permission, do not leave gates open after them, tear down fences or hunt among livestock.

Also, other reports have been that too much corn, which is yet to be picked, is being knocked down or broken off by thoughtless hunters.

Carey Riding Club Slates Tuesday Fete

CAREY — An election and banquet will be held by the Carey Riding Club at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the LDS recreation hall.

It is hoped to have an active club the coming summer and everyone interested is urged to attend. Reservations should be made with Mrs. Lloyd Davis by Sunday.

Plans were made during an officers meeting at the home of Ross Peck, drillmaster. Committee chairmen are Leon Peck, nominations; Mrs. Robert Whitby, banquet and entertainment; Mrs. LeGrand Dilworth and Mrs. Davis, invitations and advertising.

Nominations will be taken from the floor, according to Clifford Ward, president.

Hemingway Recovering In Hospital

KETCHUM — Jack Hemingway, 44, faces another week in the Sun Valley Hospital where he is recuperating from a heart attack incurred two weeks ago. And then he will have to be very careful as to his physical activity for the next three months, according to his physician.

The son of the late Ernest Hemingway just recently moved into a new 10-room home built along the Big Wood River some miles north of Ketchum, with his wife, Vira, known as Puck, and their three daughters.

Mr. Hemingway, who has been in the Ketchum area for many years having worked at Sun Valley as a youth, is known as an avid outdoorsman like his famous father.

He has been editing outdoor books for several different firms. A half-brother, Patrick Hemingway, is a former "white hunter," now in charge of a game reserve in Tanzania.

Car Hits Pole And Tree At Paul

PAUL — A 22-year-old Paul man escaped serious injury at 1:50 a.m. Sunday after his 1967 Chevrolet left a roadway west of Paul and struck a power pole then a tree.

Ricky Rosa told Minidoka County Sheriff's officers that his car went over a slight dip in the paved road, which had been slickened by recent rains, and he lost control. He climbed out of the demolished vehicle with bruises. No citation was issued.

Services Set For Ex-Hailey Teacher, 47

HAILEY — Graveside services for James N. Werry, 47, former Hailey teacher, wil be conducted at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Hailey Cemetery.

Funeral services are set for 10 a.m. Wednesday in Summers Chapel, Boise, with Rev. James Moore, Southminister Presbyterian Church, officiating.

Mr. Werry died Monday morning in a Boise hospital.

He was born Sept. 2, 1920, in Bellevue and attended schools in Hailey. During World War II he served in the South Pacific as a second lieutenant in the infantry.

After the war he was transferred to the Reserves and then to the National Guard as a captain. He graduated from the University of Idaho with a bachelor of arts degree in education in 1952 and he received his masters degree at the same institution in 1957.

He taught at the Hailey High School and later became principal of that school. He then moved to Idaho Falls where he taught chemistry. In 1962 he moved to Boise and began working for the state department of education as a director, Title Three, NDEA.

He married Jean Little, March 28, 1949, at Howe. He was a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Phi Delta Kappa.

Surviving besides his widow, Boise, are two daughters, Nancy and Susan, and three sons, James, Calvin and Billy, all at home in Boise, and two brothers, Robert Werry, Hailey, and Sidney Werry, Howe.

Man Guilty Of Hunting In "Craters"

CRATERS OF THE MOON NATIONAL MONUMENT, Arco —A conviction for hunting at Craters of the Moon National Monument was recently handed down by U.S. Commissioner Don Bistline, Pocatello.

Barry Howsden, Wendell, was found guilty of hunting within the park boundaries Oct. 23 after he was apprehended by Park rangers Oct. 7.

Public hunting is not permitted in national parks and monuments since they serve as sanctuaries for wildlife of every sort. A conviction for this offense carries a maximum fine of $500.

Park officials say that because of the protection of park areas, many deer and other wildlife are raised within park boundaries, later moving to outlying areas, making for good hunting near park borders.

Church Will Support LBJ Next Year

JEROME — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, says that unless he changes his mind he will support President Johnson next year.

A more definite commitment of support Monday by Church was in contrast to his attack the day before of administration handling of the Vietnam War during a formal talk to the Idaho Press Club in Boise.

At that time, he said he couldn't answer whether his support would be thrown to Johnson. Church, a leading Vietnam dove, is a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

"It is not possible to forecast the future," said Church while in Jerome. "At present, I have no disposition to support anyone other than President Johnson."

In Church's criticism at home of the President, he said Johnson's policy of escalation" in Vietnam caused his disenchantment.

Church's appearance in Jerome, part of his "courthouse tour" in the state, drew a record crowd, according to Mrs. Merrill Sumner, local Democratic official.

The senator also was guest at a no-host luncheon at Magic Valley cafe Monday noon. Mrs. Sumner said local problems were discussed by the constituents and Sen. Church.

THE NEED CONTINUES FOR YOUR NO-LONGER-WORN EYEGLASSES . . .

There remains a continuing need for those old, unused eyeglasses which so many people have lying around the house, and we will continue to collect these items for New Eyes For The Needy. If you have glasses which you no longer wear and would like to help someone see better, you may bring them to our office. We, in turn, will ship them to New Eyes For The Needy, Inc., in Short Hills, N. J., where they will be redistributed to the needy all over the world.

We take this opportunity to thank all those who have donated eyeglasses to this worthwhile cause. Truly, the response has been heartwarming, and typical of the generosity and compassion of local residents.

ANOTHER AGENCY to benefit from the Twin Falls United Fund Drive this year is the American Red Cross. Seen here are Mrs. Irene Basom, executive secretary at the local chapter, and William Babcock, United Fund chairman of the Red Cross effort. The United Fund drive ends this week, with officials hopeful of getting $72,000. The money collected will go to eight Twin Falls agencies.

T.F. Red Cross Chapter To Benefit In 1967 United Fund Charity Drive

Red Cross, one of eight agencies involved in the United Fund Drive in Twin Falls, is at the present time coordinating with city and county officials a plan for a new disaster shelter for future emergencies.

The Red Cross is responsible for any natural disaster, such as floods, fire, earthquake, and gets food, clothing, medical equipment and shelter for disaster victims.

Mrs. Irene Basom, local executive secretary, said the disaster recently in Fairbanks, Alaska, is an illustration of the Red Cross work. Funds spent there amounted to $1,375,000, which was more than the money spent to help victims of the Alaska earthquake in 1964.

The Red Cross also runs a blood program, and is the largest blood collecting and distributing service in the world. The local chapter received 2,911 pints of blood last year from local donors.

The local chapter also conducts classes in first aid, swimming, lifesaving and small craft programs aimed at preventing accidents and preparing people for emergencies. The Twin Falls chapter had 1,188 enrolled in water safety classes and 396 took part in first aid classes last year.

Pink Buzzard

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. Verne Runkle telephoned the county sheriff's department this week-end to say "I just saw a pink buzzard with long skinny legs and neck and long wings." Dubious deputies went to investigate.

Sure enough, there was a pink creature in a private lake just north of Ashland. But it turned out to be a flamingo, a rare bird in these parts.

Deputies are puzzled as to how the bird, normally found in more tropic climate, came to be in northern Ohio. Last report is that the bird still displays its long-legged pose in the shallow water.

Ex-Twin Falls Youth Killed In Freak Accident

A 13-year-old Twin Falls boy was killed in a freak accident in Modesto, Calif., Oct. 16, relatives here have been advised.

Ivan Blair Washburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lew A. Washburn, Modesto, who resided in Twin Falls until 1962, was killed when an automobile collided with another, careened across a yard and struck him. He was delivering papers at a home and was thrown 85 feet into the air by the vehicle.

The boy was a grandson of Mrs. Hassel Poppleton, 220 Sixth Ave. N., and of Mrs. Albert Frisch, 313 Filer Ave., Twin Falls.

Duplicate Club Lists Winners

Twin Falls Duplicate Bridge Club met at the Elks Hall Monday night.

Winners were Mr. and Mrs. Rex Wood, first; Mrs. M. A. Guerry and Mrs. Robert Peterson, second; Mrs. Artell Kelly and Mrs. Joe Shelby, third, and Mrs. W. P. Haney and Mrs. Richard Cook, fourth.

Monthly masterpoint will be played next Monday night.

Tightening Of Small Buying Is Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has ordered a tightening up of its procedures for making small purchases—those penny ante items that add up to millions.

The man responsible is Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., who has been blasting the Department of Defense for allegedly sloppy shopping practices when it comes to small purchases.

His prize exhibit was a gear which he said the Pentagon paid $194.30 for and could instead have purchased from one manufacturer's catalog for $3.43.

"We cannot tolerate flagrant practices such as those demonstrated by Mr. Pike's findings," a spokesman for the Department of Defense said Monday.

Ex-Mrs. Oswald Sues Government

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The U.S. government has been sued for $500,000 by Marina N. Oswald Porter, the widow of the man named by the Warren Commission as the assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

Mrs. Porter, in an action filed in U.S. District Court here, asks the $500,000 as compensation for the government's seizure of Oswald's personal effects.

Oswald's personal effects were to be stored in the National Archives, according to a special law passed to that effect.

A Confusing City

Urban renewal is a lot like the weather: Everybody talks about it but nobody really seems to know what to do about it.

"In the face of the most sweeping change since the great wave of city building in the Middle Ages, there is as yet no generally accepted concept of what should be sought in the form and fabric of a great city," complains Richard B. Morris, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

On the one hand are the "apostles of low density," who advise more planned satellite communities. They are countered by advocates of high density, who dream of "club sandwich cities" that would stack up different uses of urban land on top of one another — such as apartment buildings that contain their own schools, businesses, recreation facilities, public services, etc.

Then there are those who believe that emphasis on mass transportation is the solution to the city's needs. They are opposed by those who feel the private automobile must be catered to at all costs.

Some urban specialists have turned against the detached single-family home, which has been the traditional American norm, feeling that burgeoning metropolitan areas can no longer afford such inefficient use of land.

City change is also having an effect on the form of local government, as cities are faced with inadequacies of splintered municipal jurisdictions to cope with the problems of air and water pollution, public transit, highway planning and other problems which are no respecters of boundary lines.

These are only a few indications of new forces that are accumulating to bring about "the greatest extent of city change that any of us have known," says Morris. But in facing these new forces, he suggests we keep in mind a few basic factors:

"No city has ever achieved greatness without a deep respect on the part of its citizens for law and order.

"Civic character of a great city is derived from a high degree of local responsibility rather than from dependency.

"A great city expresses in civic works and in the conduct of local affairs the distinctive character, the aspirations, the skill and enthusiasm of its own citizens—and not in acceptance of synthetic norms imposed upon it."

In other words, a city can be great no matter how hodgepodgedly it has grown.

But no amount of planning—assuming we can agree on our plans—will guarantee that this intangible something called greatness will be built in along with the bricks and girders.

There's A Dab Of The Plain Citizen

WASHINGTON — Because the House is overset with self-serving whoopers and red-blooded boobs, its motives must always be suspect even when it upholds motherhood. But it is hard not to sympathize with its action in voting a government-wide ceiling on spending that could force cuts of $8.7 billion.

At the risk of courting a libel suit, it must be stated that there is a dab of the plain citizen in every House member. Undoubtedly, it was this that caused the House to reject another of those pleas, this time from Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., that it engage in one of those interminable and ineffective "reviews" of individual programs before setting spending limits.

Clearly, the House was in no mood for sweet reasonableness, probably because it had been tried so often before without results. Prodded by a flood of mail from constituents, our fed-up legislators decided the hell with the details and reached for the meat axe. Their sentiment was shown in the votes — 238 to 164 to adopt the ceiling, 244 to 158 against referring it to the Appropriations Committee, and 253 to 143 for final passage. In short, the House grew more "unreasonable" with every fleeting minute.

The Administration had argued that an $8.7 billion cut would be impossible without "radical" reductions in federal programs. Okay, said the House, leave us have some "radical" reductions. Among other things, the House ceiling would freeze Great Society programs at last year's low levels by banning step-ups scheduled for this year, an eventuality sure to lose votes for Lyndon Johnson and some other Democratic candidates in 1968. Perhaps this is the best measure of the House's mood, and one some of its members may live to regret.

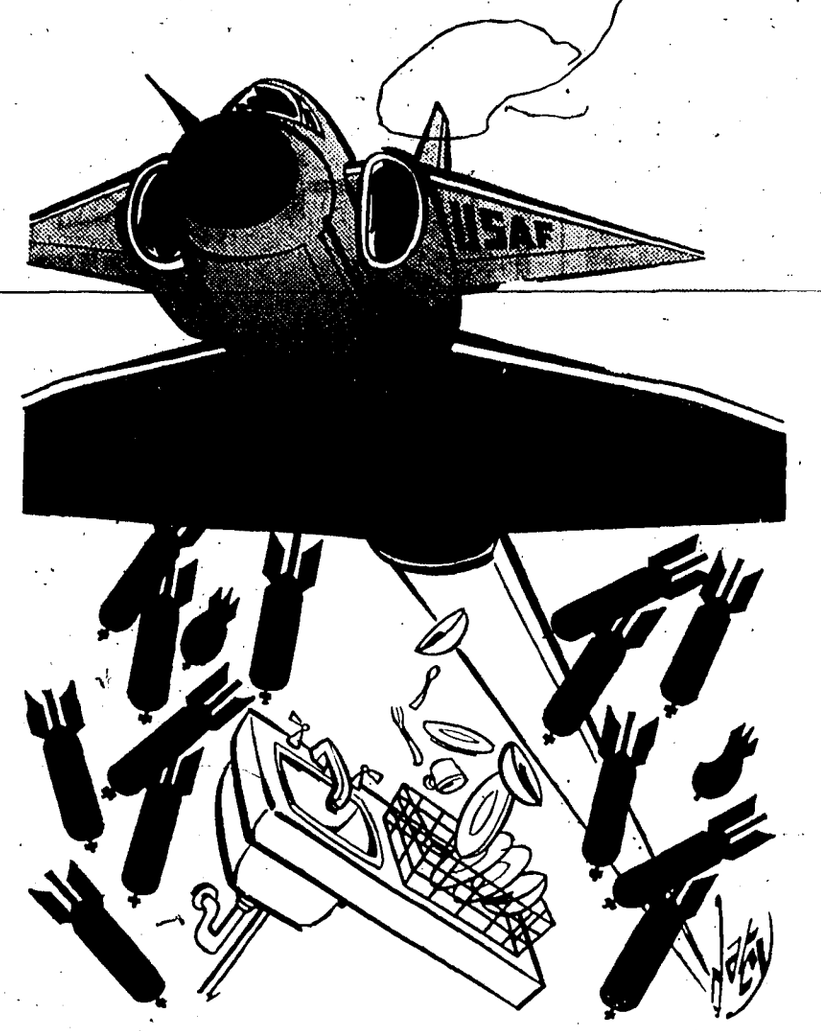

Still the House did not abandon all of its cunning, peasant caution. Its basic pusillanimity was reflected in the careful manner in which its members covered their retreat.

In dumping Mahon's proposal for selective cuts in spending, for example, the membership arranged matters so that it could not be blamed for specific cuts which might offend specific constituents. As Mahon remarked, the members wanted to make sure President Johnson could be blamed for the more unpopular budget reductions.

It was significant, too, that an amendment to make Congress subject to the proposed payroll cutback was defeated, 134 to 66. Politicians are a suspicious lot, and the House was not swallowing assurances that almost certainly no Congressman would be forced to fire any staff members.

In turn, the House also defeated a proposal to cut funds for development of the supersonic transport plane and a "do-it-yourself" amendment offered by Rep. Charles Joelson, D-N. J., requiring each member to draw up a list of federal aid propects in his district to be eliminated. The votes, of course, were for plane contracts in Congressional districts and against economy in their own backyards. "Cutting spending," remarked Mahon dryly, "is very painful."

Mahon is right, of course. The House merits no medal for political courage in this one. But in thus brandishing the meat axe, its members were following the lead of the folks back home. Burdened with new state and local taxes, a soaring cost of living and the threat of a federal tax boost, Main Street has become a touch disillusioned with promises to "review" spending. It has discovered in the past that "reviewing" spending is just another euphemism to justify $100 million for gold doorknobs in the Presidential Palace in Tanzania.

WAYNE BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Massage Value

Q—My wife has had myositis for six years. Nothing she has taken seems to help. What do you advise?

A—Chronic myositis (inflammation of a muscle) may be due to an infection or a muscle strain that has never had a chance to heal. The first procedure would be to find and remove the cause, if possible. Hot packs or an electric pad applied for 20 to 30 minutes two or three times a day often help. Drugs are of little value in the treatment of this disease.

Q—What are the usual symptoms of polymyositis? What is the cause? Can it be cured?

A—Polymyositis usually starts with easy fatigability and a feeling of lassitude. Tests of strength show a definite weakness in the involved muscles. There may also be a skin rash. The cause is unknown. Aspirin, prednisone and gentle massage are the measures most commonly used in treatment. They should be applied faithfully to prevent complications. Although treatment is beneficial, it cannot be said to cure the disease.

Q—How serious is muscular atrophy? Is there any cure?

A—Although there are several types of muscular atrophy, such as muscular dystrophy, amyotrophic lateral sclerosis and progressive bulbar palsy, all are characterized by a progressive wasting of the muscles. These diseases are not an immediate threat to life but they are disabling and no treatment is known for any of them.

Q—Is there any cure for trigeminal neuralgia?

A—This condition, also called tic Douloureux and facial neuralgia, may be treated either by injecting the painful nerve with boiling water or alcohol or by an operation in which the nerve is crushed. Both methods, when properly done, give prompt relief but the relief following nerve crushing is more enduring. Nerve injections usually have to be repeated after two years or less.

Q—Is there any cure for the intercostal neuralgia that persists after an attack of shingles?

A—As with any other chronic neuralgia, if pain-killing drugs do not give adequate relief, cutting or crushing the nerve must be done.

Q — I have Meniere's syndrome. When I feel an attack coming on, I take Antivert right away. Would it be OK to take a tablet every day as a precaution?

A—One Antivert tablet may be taken two or three times a day to control the attacks of Meniere's syndrome of labyrithitis. The exact dosage that is best for you should be determined by your doctor.

Q—What is the cardiac pacemaker?

A—This is a node of nervous tissue with its network of nerve fibers that initiates each beat of the heart. When it is working properly the auricles contract forcing blood into the ventricles, then the ventricles contract. There is a slight pause between successive beats. When anything happens to interfere with the normal rhythm some form of arrhythmia (skipped beats, heart block, fibrillation or flutter) occurs. The interference may be mild or severe and transistory or persistent. If it is serious a battery-operated artificial pacemaker can be implanted under the skin.

Less Regulation

The U.S. maritime industry, which has deteriorated alarmingly, is a prime example of how much harm over-regulation and federal paternalism can do. Transportation Secretary Alan S. Boyd discussed this point at a recent New York forum on transportation.

Any industry, Mr. Boyd pointed out, can be stifled by being overprotected and oversubsidized. "Competition and independence of government involvement," he said, "are essential ingredients for a healthy and productive industry."

As for the transportation industry, the secretary indicated the White House is considering less regulation as the way to meet the needs in the 1970s of an expanding population. On this point the railroads and trucking industry have been battling for a long time, with the roads urging the Interstate Commerce Commission and other rule-making agencies to ease up on their restrictions.

Francois Writes To Pierre

Pierre Bernheim
16 Avenue Hoche
Paris, France

My Dear Pierre,

Forgive me for not writing sooner, but as you know there is a war going on in the United States and I have been in my fallout shelter for several months.

Without giving away secrets, here is the military situation in the United States at the moment.

The Pentagon is still in the hands of the government. An assault last weekend by members of the 51st Light Peace Brigade, known as the Fighting Doves, supported by the 33rd Flower Battalion, failed and was repulsed by members of the 82nd Airborne Division of the U.S. Army. There was heavy fighting in the north parking lot, and suicide units of the SDS (Students for a Democratic Society) managed to get to the steps of the building before they were turned back.

Gen. Norman Mailer of the 22nd Heavy Obscenity Corps was captured as were 600 other Militant Peace Commandos.

The attack started with a barrage of curse words followed by an assault across the demilitarized zone with clubs, pop bottles and tomatoes.

In fierce hand-to-hand combat the loyal government troops held their ground, and by evening Army spokesmen were able to announce that the Pentagon was safe, at least for the moment.

But while it turned out to be a military victory for the government, neutral observers here believe that President Johnson's pacification program in the United States is failing.

In order to win the war in the United States, Mr. Johnson has to win the hearts and minds of the American people. This he is failing to do, and there is considerable speculation that his regime may be overthrown by November, 1968.

While the President still has support in Washington, D.C., (his wife, Sen. Everett Dirksen and his future son-in-law) it's very hard to find it in the countryside. There has been fighting in Madison, Wis., Boston, Mass., Oakland, Calif., and Brooklyn, N.Y.

The military is dissatisfied with the civilian control of the situation and would like to wipe out the peace resisters once and for all. They want to bomb Harvard, Yale, the University of Michigan, the University of Wisconsin and the University of California at Berkley, but these targets, for political reasons, are still off limits.

The military men claim they can't win the war if the peace marchers continue to use the Dr. Benjamin Spock Trail.

So you see, my dear Pierre, the situation in the United States is quite serious, and some experts predict it will go on for 20 years. I know you are worried for our safety, but please be assured we are taking all precautions.

We sleep in the fallout shelter, and Helene only goes out in the morning to buy bread and milk. I fly the French flag from my automobile to show everyone I am neutral, and, if worse comes to worse, the embassy has assured us a cruiser will be sent to evacuate us. Thank God I kept my French passport.

Your cher ami,
Francois

MR. SPECTATOR

And Now There Is Christmas

Well, everyone seemed to survive the dastardly change which saw Daylight Saving Time come into being in Idaho earlier this year.

We had been told that the cows would stop eating, the birds would stop flying, the sun would stop coming up or going down and that a few more tragic things would happen all because of the fact the time was being moved ahead an hour.

How, many people asked, are the animals going to know that they will eat an hour sooner and the hens that they will lay an hour sooner?

Well, apparently the animals and the hens figured the whole thing out because they survived, ate and gained weight in the process.

Personally, Mr. Spectator was most happy with the extra hour of daylight arrangement. It was possible to do a lot of things after work that couldn't ordinarily be accomplished.

And now that it is over, there is another benefit. Now the sun is practically up by the time Mr. Spectator gets to the office at 7 a.m. Last Saturday, at that hour, it was dark but Monday morning, with the time back in the old slot, it was light. That's progress!

So that's the way it should be. In the summer, when the light is going around, we should have as much of it as possible.

The same thing applies in the winter. Time should be shoved around so that we can get as much winter light as possible.

But just in case you want something to worry about, now that Daylight Saving Time is gone for another few months, why not start thinking of Christmas, the presents you must buy, the debts you must incur and the snow you must walk through and shovel off your walks.

Lots of things are worse than Daylight Saving.

AUTUMN ARTISTRY

The latter rain has washed the grass,
The flowers, the shrubs, and trees,
Refreshed the thirsty gardens
And brought rest to working bees.

An artist views the landscape
There's too much green he scolds
And deftly sets a change of scene
With reds and browns and golds.

Each year he adds the color
As summer's green is lost
The champion artist of the world
Is Nature's boy—Jack Frost.

NOT-SO-HOT-LINE

Speaking of opening up lines of communication to Red China, there's one in operation every day, for one hour. It's been in existence since 1937.

Each day, at 3:30 p.m., says the Long Lines Department of AT&T, an operator in the Oakland office of Pacific Telephone speaks with Shanghai's chief operator—Mrs. Chang—and asks if there is any traffic. There seldom is.

Occasionally, a reporter tries to place a call to Mao Tse-tung. Mrs. Chang has never been able to find such a listing.

INFORMATION DEPT.

The cry of "Get a Horse!" is once again heard in the land.

There are, says a noted equine expert, more pleasure horses in America today than there were at the turn of the century. The metropolitan state of New Jersey, for example, actually boasts more horses per square mile than Texas, most of them kept on "ranches" of less than half an acre.

The man who says so ought to know. Holding the government - created post of Extension Associate in Horse Management at Rutgers University, Frederick Harper is the country's only U. S. Department of Agriculture Extension Service specialist in horse management.

Horses have become the nation's leading pleasure industry, says Harper, both in terms of numbers of people and dollars invested.

And that ain't hay.

Too Many Different Cooks

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The protest march on the Pentagon wasn't very convincing.

A goodly chunk of those who came to Washington seemed more interested in sightseeing than in protesting anything. Some of the girls seemed more concerned with meeting boys than in marching.

Some marchers were openly promoting this cause or that. Some signs, for example, read "Avenge Che Guevarra." One jailed protester this reporter knows personally is angry with the world because his mother left home and his father threw him out. He protests everything that comes along.

Some of those who came to Washington were men and women whose acts and talk indicated they were sincerely protesting for reasons they believed in. But these men and women seemed outnumbered by those who dressed like hippies, those whose principal aim seemed to be mouthing obscenities or to taunt GIs, the "tourists," the gawkers and the showoffs who did silly things to get their pictures taken.

The silliest showoff seen by this reporter was a young woman who covered her mouth with one hand, held out a flower in the other, and for about 15 minutes pushed up and pressed herself against a sheathed bayonet held by an unhappy young soldier just standing in line. She shivered in pretended agony—until the cameras stopped. Then she moved away to some other activity.

There were groups with signs backing the war too: "Support Our Troops; They're Dying for You;" "God Bless America;" "Help Freedom — Support Vietnam;" "U.S.A. All the Way." One sign said the bearer, a Disabled American Veteran, had walked from Philadelphia to Washington, D.C., to support the U.S. role in Vietnam.

In competition with the protest speeches on the Pentagon north parking lot, a Lutheran minister who had been tortured and imprisoned for years by the Communists in Romania, told the crowd what happens to people in countries taken over by the Reds. Meanwhile, 30 of his followers carried blow-ups of pictures of Viet Cong atrocities.

But most of the marchers seemed to be along "just for the ride." One girl attending a midwestern college called up her parents a few days before the march, told them that if she joined some organization for $10 she'd get a free ride to Washington and could see them. She thought it was a good deal; her parents said "no."

There was a hard core of toughs, perhaps a few hundred who, with their hangers-on added up to perhaps 1,000 or so.

These few apparently had as their aim the creation of disorder and rioting. The ones this reporter saw were vulgar men and women interested in no cause at all except hate. Some took their pleasure in jeering at GIs who stood impassively in a tremendous demonstration of restraint during the reviling.

Men mingling with the crowd heard some of this group of marchers complain that demonstrations like this were no longer effective in rousing people. This, they said, was because the government was too cooperative in allowing the meetings. Some of the group felt something "stronger" and "more violent" must be attempted in the future. Most seemingly didn't care. They had had a good time.

GIs In Europe

NEW YORK (NEA) — More than 200,000 American troops are stationed in Europe at a time when United States resources are increasingly taxed by the war in Vietnam.

Despite repeated requests by the Johnson administration, the NATO allies have given little or no practical help to contain the Communists in Southeast Asia. They expect the United States to defend Europe but consider the Vietnamese conflict as an "American affair."

When will Johnson tell NATO clearly and firmly that America is no longer in a position to police Europe and at the same time fight aggression in Southeast Asia?

Even the West Germans have adopted a posture of neutrality in the Vietnamese conflict. They stand most to gain from the American presence in Europe. They are eager to keep every single GI on their soil while they search for ways and means to reach an understanding with Russia. But to impress Moscow with their neutrality and independence and to appease French President DeGaulle, they are increasingly critical of the war in Vietnam.

According to Helmut Schmidt, an influential West German politician, the United States has "no convincing political formula" for a solution of the Vietnam problem. He recently visited Washington and returned to Bonn with a full bag of critical statements.

Schmidt is no ordinary politician. He is the leader of the Social Democratic deputies in Bonn's Bundestag. He is a close associate of Willy Brandt, West German vice chancellor and foreign minister.

Like Brandt, Schmidt is eager for a rapprochement with Russia. He is obviously convinced that he could soften Moscow's policy on Bonn and German unity by attacking American policy on Vietnam.

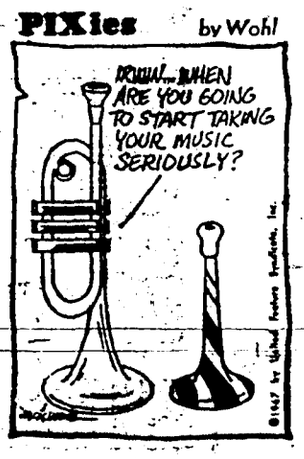

Taking their cue from De-Gaulle, an increasing number of West German leaders no longer draw the parallel between Vietnam and Berlin they did in 1965. Then they welcomed the escalation of the war as a demonstration of the reliability of American guarantees. Now, Bonn's politicians see U.S. commitment in Southeast Asia as a "tragic involvement."

The North Atlantic alliance was originally created to defend Europe against Russia. Today the Russians are too busy with their Red Chinese enemy and their economic difficulties to dream of military adventures in Europe. Moscow's military strategists never relished the idea of a possible conflict on two fronts—in the Far East and West.

Europe will not be in danger in the foreseeable future. The crucial issue for the United States is Vietnam and Southeast Asia.

Surely this is the time to give serious consideration to the proposal for a massive troop withdrawal from Europe advanced by Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont.

Foreign Aid Program Causes New Friction

By ROBERT GRAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. foreign aid program, traditionally a thorny issue on Capitol Hill, has produced a whole new set of frictions this year.

A conference of delegates from both houses is deadlocked over one area of the 1967 aid authorization bill with no sign of compromise in sight.

Senate conferees are refusing to yield on provisions adopted in that chamber to cut back on U.S. sales and grants of military equipment to underdeveloped nations.

The House delegation, with administration backing, is trying to eliminate those provisions and substitute compromise approaches.

But a conference Monday, the first in 18 days, broke up in disagreement after an hour's discussion in closed session. Various alternatives were discussed but none was acceptable to both sides.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said he would prefer no aid bill at all this year to one that continued at its present level military aid to underdeveloped nations.

Fulbright and fellow Senate conferees have argued that sales of arms to such countries have helped keep them impoverished paying for equipment they don't need.

The House conferees, representing the administration view, hold that cutting back arms supplied under the program would amount to unilateral disarmament of friendly nations that are or could be threatened by Communist aggression.

The possibility has been raised in the House that a foreign aid appropriation bill, providing actual funds, will be passed without waiting for the deadlocked authorization measure, which sets policy and spending limits.

But this is viewed on the other side of the Capitol as a pressure tactic designed to convince the Senate conferees to give in on the military aid issue or see themselves bypassed.

Senate sources said that no matter what the House does, the Senate Appropriations Committee would not likely follow a move to bypass the authorization process.

Marches Set During King's Jail Stay

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Demonstrations twice a day are planned for the duration of a five-day jail sentence for Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and three other Negro ministers, the Rev. T.Y. Rogers says.

Rogers, a civil rights leaders, said Monday night at least two marches per day will be held in support of King, the Rev. Ralph Abernathy of Atlanta, the Rev. Wyatt Tee Walker of New York and the Rev. A.D. King of Louisville, Ky., who are serving a jail sentence on contempt charges.

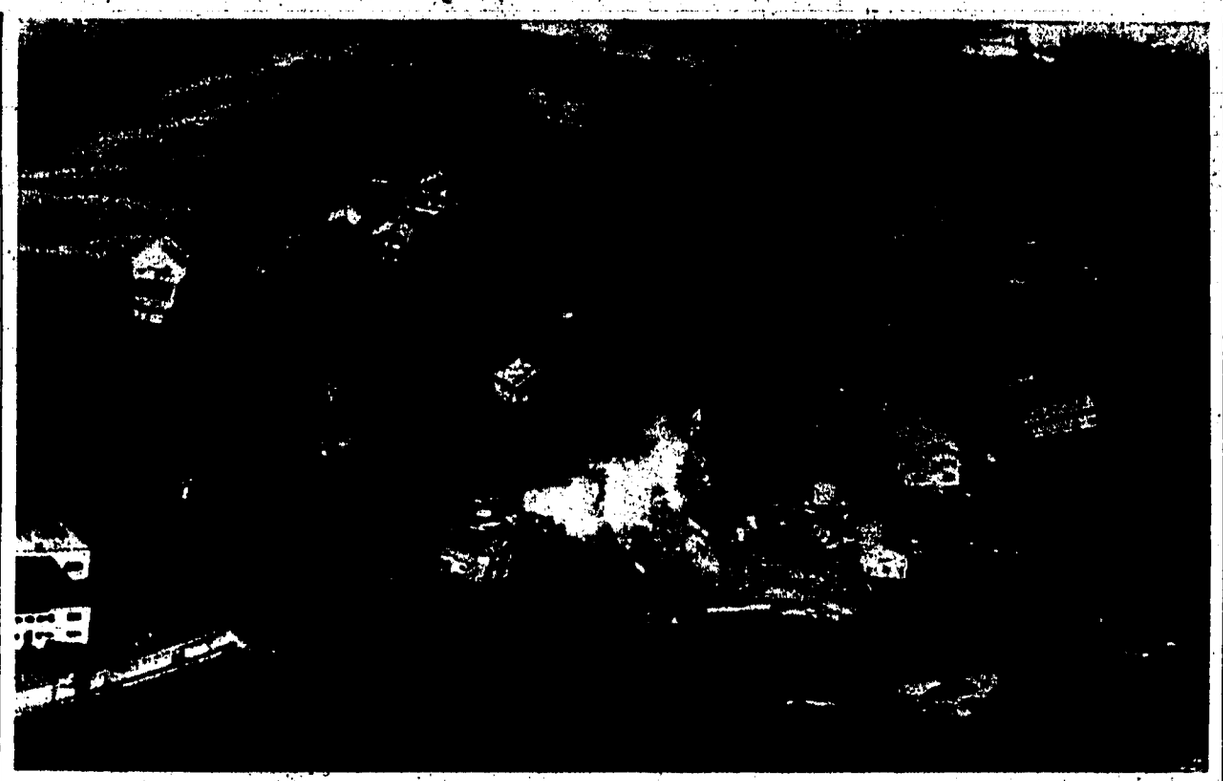

The four ministers were arrested by Jefferson County sheriff's deputies Monday afternoon when their plane landed in Birmingham.

The marches, Rogers said, have a two-fold purpose. He said they are sympathy marches—"We march for them in 1967, they marched for us in 1963"—as well as a protest against jailing of the civil rights leaders.

Rogers said others who broke the injunction prohibiting a parade on Good Friday in 1963 still remain free.

"There is a possibility that some of those involved in the 1963 demonstration will request to be jailed if they are also guilty as the others," Rogers said.

About 200 Negroes marched from a Birmingham church Monday night to the courthouse and then dispersed without an incident.

Bank Official Captures Holdup Man

SEATTLE (AP) — While a wounded bank teller lay bleeding on the floor, a bank executive subdued an armed holdup man Monday, then held him at gun-point until police arrived.

The holdup man had attempted to escape from the Empire Way Branch of the Washington Mutual Savings Bank with $13,788 stuffed in a paper sack.

The teller, Mrs. Linda Yoshimura, 27, reported in good condition in a Seattle hospital, was shot when the robber shifted a .45-caliber pistol from his left to his right hand and the weapon fired. She crumpled to the floor, and the robber then ordered Donald White, bank assistant manager, to clean out the cashiers' cages.

"When we got to the end window, I thought he was going to shoot me so I knocked him down and took his pistol," White said.

The bank excutive said the man returned his blow and ran from the bank. White, armed with the holdup man's pistol, caught the robber and slammed him across the forehead with it. White then fired a shot in the air to attract attention. A patrolman four blocks away heard the shot and rushed to the bank.

A complaint charging Gene Alan Osburn, 30, with attempted bank robbery was filed with a U. S. commissioner. Osburn, who told police he was a metal polisher and had been living in a Seattle motel, also was charged in Municipal Court with first degree assault.

Husband Tells Of Terrifying Honeymoon

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — "I was in heaven—on my honeymoon, then all hell broke loose with this—nut," said Charles Caldwell after 44 hours of terror ended with the shooting of his bride and her rejected suitor's suicide.

Lida Caldwell, 19, was taken at gunpoint from the young couple's apartment a few hours after the wedding Saturday. Robert Batch, 23, a former mental patient she dated until about a month ago, shot and wounded her 18-year-old husband as the couple arrived home from Detroit where they were married.

Batch then took the dark-haired, brown-eyed girl to his third-floor attic apartment in suburban University Heights, holding the bride and police at bay until Monday afternoon.

Batch, quoted by his mother as saying, "There was no reason to go on living," shot Mrs. Caldwell in the chest and turned the gun on himself.

"My darling, My darling," moaned the dying Batch as police stormed into the apartment to find him draped across his young captive.

"Get me out of here," begged Mrs. Caldwell as she was carried to an ambulance.

The bullet pierced her chest and came out her back. After surgery at Doctor's Hospital, she remained in satisfactory condition today.

Batch was pronounced dead at the same hospital from a bullet wound in his heart.

Four miles away in St. Vincent Charity Hospital, her husband, a short order cook, also in satisfactory condition, is recovering from face wounds.

"I hope I can see her soon," Caldwell said from his hospital bed, adding that "this past couple of days have been hell . . . but now I'm in heaven again."

The dramatic siege at Batch's apartment began when detectives, searching for Mrs. Caldwell, went there Sunday morning.

The officers found Mrs. Caldwell in the kitchen. Standing nearby with a pistol was Batch. He ordered the detectives to leave, saying he would kill her and himself if they didn't.

In the next 27 hours he let police and others enter the apartment at various times. But he wielded his pistol constantly, usually keeping it pointed at the girl's head.

On Monday Batch's mother, Martha Smith, 50, talked to her son from outside the apartment door just before he made his final decision, pleading with him to release Mrs. Caldwell and give himself up. She had flown here from her home in Johnstown, Pa., on an airplane chartered by the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The distraught Batch ignored his mother's pleas as well as those from police and Roman Catholic priests who gathered earlier at the scene. Often he refused to even talk.

LIDA CALDWELL, 19, is carried from the house in which she was held captive over the weekend by a former boyfriend. She is carried by Cleveland Detective Sgt. Ralph Joyce, aided by University Heights Detective Lawerence Hernandez. The young woman was wounded in the chest Monday before her captor, Robert Batch, turned the gun on himself. He died. She is reported in fair condition. (AP wirephoto)

Protestant Leaders Give Views On Synod Of Bishops Meeting

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Protestant leaders today voiced both appreciation and some disappointment at results of the just-concluded meeting of Roman Catholicism's new international synod of bishops in Rome.

Representatives of several denominations saw potential ecumenical gains in some of the actions recommended, but they said further steps still were needed to put mixed marriages on an equitable footing.

On that matter, Charles Parlin, a Manhattan attorney and Methodist observer-delegate just returned from Rome, said both Protestants and Catholic lay leaders were "disappointed that the synod didn't go further."

However, he added, "even though it only inched along, the fact that there was a synod and that it listened to the laity to a limited extent is a history-making and very hopeful sign."

The synod, which ended its month-long first meeting Sunday, urged an easing of the requirement that non-Catholic partners in mixed marriages make oral promises to rear children as Catholics.

It was also recommended, subject to action by the Pope, that local bishops be allowed to make exceptions to the rule requiring that a Catholic priest officiate at mixed marriages in order for the church to consider them valid.

The Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, president of the Lutheran Church in America and chairman of the central committee of the World Council of Churches, commented:

"We Protestants await with anxiety and—thanks to the reported attitude of the synod of bishops—with a dash of hopefulness the verdict that the Pope will soon pronounce on mixed marriages.

"We eagerly hope that it will be in accord with the spirit of the Vatican Council, recognizing as Christians the members of other churches and honoring the basic liberties of all human beings."

The Rev. Dr. John T. Middaugh, member of the United Presbyterian ecumenical commission on relations with Catholics and president of Carroll College, Waukesha, Wis., called the mixed marriage action a "significant step."

It "will ultimately lead to truly Christian interfaith marriages," he said. "But until we come to the point where priest and minister join hands as fellow pastors in these marriages, we fall short of the ideal."

He termed the synod's recommendation for a theological commission to deal with doctrinal problems "a highly commendable step" and expressed hope it will also include Protestant and Orthodox advisors.

"The Roman Catholic Church no longer exists in a vacuum," he said. "Both Protestants and Roman Catholics have learned by the grace of God that we have to listen to each other."

Little Hope Seen To End Copper Strike

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — After separate and private meetings with negotiators for Kennecott Copper Corp. and the striking unions, Gov. Calvin L. Rampton has been able to offer little encouragement in the 109-day-old strike.

Rampton met over the weekend with union representatives and Monday with Kennecott officials. But there was no word that the contract talks — abandoned almost two weeks ago — would be renewed.

After Monday afternoon's meeting with Edmund J. Flynn, industrial relations counselor for Kennecott's Western Division, both men said "there was nothing to report."

Rampton's aide, Ronald Swenson, who didn't sit in on the discussion, said both men "weren't smiling when they came out."

Earlier, Rampton and Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, said federal intervention in the prolonged strike, which has idled some 50,000 workers nationwide, was not pending.

Moss and Rampton, in Provo to attend a conference sponsored by the federal Small Business Administration, said the Taft-Hartley Act was not yet warranted.

Moss said if the strike is to extend another month, Taft-Hartly provisions could be invoked. He cited the lack of "continuous bargaining" as the main hurdle in the extension of negotiations.

Queen Claims Government To Cut Power

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II told the ermine-robed members of Britain's House of Lords today that the Labor government plans to reduce their powers and eliminate their present hereditary basis.

Reform of the Lords, said the queen in her Speech from the Throne opening the new session of Parliament, will enable the upper house "to develop within the framework of a modern parliamentary system."

The queen's speech was not precise on what reforms the government plans and whether future membership in the House of Lords will be by election or appointment. The speech said the government is "prepared to enter into consultations appropriate to a constitutional change of such importance."

The speech, written by Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor government, was read by the queen as usual in the ornate Lords' chamber to the peers in their robes and coronets, with their ladies in long gowns and jewels. Wilson and his ministers from the House of Commons stood or sat on the steps of the throne.

The queen's speech contained the government's major legislative proposals for the coming session. In addition to the Lords' reform, the Labor government pledged to tighten the nation's gambling laws and extend the scope of laws against racial discrimination.

STRIKE BLAMED

WALLACE, Idaho (AP) — A strike at the Galena Mine west of here was partly blamed Monday by Day Mines, Inc. for its third quarter net operating profit of $164,105, compared with $276,919 during the same quarter last year.

The Day Mines quarterly report said its nine-month net was $572,258, or 20 cents per share on a total income of $1,969,069. The dividend for the first three quarters of 1966 was 28 cents per share.

Two Caribou Officials File Libel Suit

SODA SPRINGS, Idaho (AP) — Five past or present state officials are being sued for $300,000 in damages in a libel suit brought by two Caribou County officials.

The suit, filed in Sixth District Court here, alleges that the state officials, all Democratic members of the Idaho Land Board at one time or another, purchased a "malicious" advertisement in the weekly Soda Springs newspaper.

Plaintiffs in the suit are J. F. Woodall, Caribou County assessor, and Reed Budge ,a Caribou County commissioner.

Named as defendants are state Auditor Joe Williams, Superintendent of Public Instruction D. F. Engelking, former Land Commissioner O. J. Buxton and former Secretaries of State L. E .Clapp and Arnold Williams.

The suit alleges that the advertisement inferred that the two officials used their influence to gain a lease on state grazing land for a grazing association of which they were members.

The five Democrats had brought suit against the two when the Democrats held a majority on the land board. After the Democrats became a minority members on the board, the board voted to dismiss the suit.

CHARGES FILED

RIGBY (AP)—Amended misdemeanor charges were filed against four Roberts men Monday to avoid multiplicity of suits in cases stemming from demonstrations at Roberts Aug. 28 protesting the closure of Roberts High School.

Grant Young, Jefferson County Prosecuting Attorney, said the charge was brought against the four men as co-defendants in a single case of refusing to disperse on being commanded by Sheriff Howard Shaffer.

The single charge against the four defendants replaces the two separate charges of unlawful assembly and obstructing a public highway, explained Young.

The defendants are Elmer and Avaon Wilde, Robert Johnson and Michael Hochwart. They are all free on bail or on their own recognizance.

CHAIRMAN NAMED

Kirk Says LBJ Plans To Dump Humphrey

By The Associated Press

Republican Gov. Claude Kirk of Florida, prognosticating from about as far outside Democratic strategy councils as a man can get, says President Johnson's 1968 plans include dumping Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Kirk told a Detroit news conference Johnson will withdraw his support of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, throw the Democratic convention open "and let the Democratic left wing select the dove of their choice" for the vice presidential spot.

The first-year GOP governor also had a surprise prediction as to who would wind up as Johnson's 1968 running mate.

"It is my belief that Johnson's choice will be Gen. James Gavin—a move designed to capture headlines as the campaign begins — a Johnson specialty," said Kirk.

Gavin, a retired lieutenant general, has been a persistent critic of Johnson's Vietnam policies. In resigning earlier this year from the Massachusetts Democratic Advisory Council, Gavin said: "I simply cannot support President Johnson for re-election in 1968."

But Gavin has been mentioned as a dark horse presidential or vice presidential candidate—on the Republican ticket.

As Kirk visited his home state, Michigan Gov. George Romney continued his swing through New England with fresh attacks on the Johnson administration's credibility.

Hitting hard at what has been a favorite theme in recent weeks, Republican Romney told a Boston audience the government has failed "to tell us the truth, either at home or abroad."

"As far as I am concerned," he added, "LBJ has not leveled with us—he hasn't told us the truth."

Romney assured his listeners that when he revisits Vietnam in December he'll avoid those who gave him "the standard White House treatment" during a 1965 visit.

Earlier this year Romney generated a furor by asserting he was "brainwashed" by U.S. military and diplomatic officials during his first Saigon visit.

Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois—himself considered a darkhorse GOP presidential prospect—said in Los Angeles meanwhile that Republicans aren't split as badly as Democrats over Vietnam.

Percy predicted the Republican national convention will produce a general policy statement on Vietnam, but: "I don't think the country would expect us to come up with a detailed formula on how we would achieve peace."

New Officers For Gem Club Elected During Recent Meet

Harry B. Jennings, Buhl, was elected new president of the Magic Valley Gem Club during a recent meeting of the club at the Times-News Building.

Vice president is Clifford Jackson, Burley; Mrs. Joe (Helen) Fox, Twin Falls, secretary; Mrs. Harold (Vena) Waggoner, Twin Falls, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Gene (Patricia) Alvey, Twin Falls, treasurer; Ray E. Moon, Twin Falls, federation director, and Dee Ainsworth, Twin Falls, field marshal. The new officers will take office in January.

Lowell Fields, Gooding, president of the Northwest Federation of Mineralogical Societies, announced that Mrs. Johnette Braga, Gooding, is chairman of the new museum committee, and Clifford Jackson, chairman of the slide program for the Northwest mineralogical society.

Henry Quast, Kimberly, won a faceted rose quartz. His name was drawn from among those who brought crystals for the Baby Rock Show.

Dr. Earl Swanson, Idaho State University, will be speaker at the annual Thanksgiving Dinner to be held at 7 p.m. Nov. 16, at the Moose Hall, it was announced. Dr. Swanson will speak on "Archaeology In Idaho," and will show slides to illustrate his talk.

Mrs. Swanson will accompany him. Members were reminded to bring a covered dish, salad or dessert, plus table service, to the dinner, but the gem club would furnish the turkey, potatoes, dressing and rolls, it was reported.

Wayne Marshall gave the program for the evening, telling how he assisted Dr. John White, paleontologist, Idaho State University, this past summer in excavating fossils of various animals, birds and fish. These have been found in the Hagerman area and extend as far as Homedale.

Fossils from these diggings date back 3½ million years. A number of bones were shown and identified.

Nuclear Treaty Terms Agreed Upon

BRUSSELS (AP) — The United States and all of the Common Market countries except France agreed today on terms of a treaty to check the spread of nuclear weapons, a spokesman for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization announced.

The five Common Market countries who agreed are West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg. They had been objecting to the inspection article in the treaty.

The U.S. permament representatives to the North Atlantic council announced the United States would resume negotiations with the Soviet Union in Geneva on the inspection system, taking into account principles proposed by the five members of Euratom— the European Atomic Energy Community.

The inspection aims at preventing peaceful nuclear plants from making or helping make nuclear weapons.

France is also a member of Euratom. But President Charles de Gaulle wants no part of the nuclear treaty and intends to have France produce nuclear weapons without international inspection.

The five Euratom countries want inspection of their nuclear plants done by Euratom. The Soviet Union, however, wants it done by the International Atomic Energy Agency IAEA.

West Germany an dItaly particularly contend that inspection by IAEA would hamper their peaceful nuclear development. Moscow has been accusing West Germany of opposing IAEA inspection on order to make nuclear bombs.

2 Businessmen's Bodies Found

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Two Wyoming businessmen were shot and killed and their bodies were buried in a shallow grave 35 miles southeast of Reno, a coroner said Monday.

Coroner Londa P. Anderson, of Dayton, identified the men as Robert F. Stucker, 30, and Larry W. Olinger, 33, both of Jackson.

Stucker and Olinger checked out of the Continental Lodge Motel in Reno Aug. 22 and were listed as missing ever since. They left their small airplane at the Reno Airport.

The bodies were found Sunday.

San Jose College Has Negro Queen

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — San Jose State College, which had to cancel a football game last month during campus racial troubles will have a Negro homecoming queen Saturday for its game with the University of Wyoming.

She is Valerie Dickerson, 20, one of about 100 Negroes in a student body of 22,000. She was elected in a campuswide vote last weekend.

Miss Dickerson, whose 35-20-35 figure must have helped her campaign, is outspoken on racial matters. She once addressed a joint session of the Montana Legislature on the subject while a student at Carroll College, Helena, Mont.

Griffin For President Cards Turning Up In East Detroit

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan is the first to admit it isn't much of a ground swell, that decidedly minor movement to draft him for the Republican presidential nomination. But it's the only one he has.

There's a man in East Detroit, the home territory of Michigan Gov. George Romney, dispatching postcards urging a Griffin draft in 1968. Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., got one of the cards and sent it along to Griffin with a note reminding his fellow first-term colleague:

"George isn't going to like this."

George Romney is on the verge of declaring himself a candidate for the White House nomination in 1968. And Griffin is a Romney man.

"George Romney has several problems these days, but this is certainly not one of them," Griffin said. "Whatever ground swell there is is still a long way underground."

Draft Griffin postcards began turning up in the senator's office six weeks ago. They were signed by Richard J. O'Halloran of East Detroit. The message:

"The people of Michigan should draft the Hon. Robert P. Griffin for the R. nomination for president. U.S. Sen. Robert P. Griffin has youth and experience and would be a winner."

The cards were relayed to Griffin by colleagues in the Senate and the House, where he formerly served. Members of Congress apparently formed a large part of the mailing list.

A Griffin aide called O'Halloran, and said the man told him he is 74, a retired industrial plant worker, and turned out the post card messages on a printing press in his basement.

"We don't even know this fellow personally," Griffin said.

The senator said he has not discussed the gentle draft with Romney. "I never took it seriously enough."

Griffin is serving his first elective term in the Senate after winning five terms in the House. He was elected to the Senate a year ago in a Michigan GOP triumph which helped establish Romney's credentials as a candidate who could help pull other Republicans to victory.

A Column for Sports Fans

By Bob Reese

Sometimes the thin line between being a champion or an also-ran is a matter of simply not quitting.

Back in 1966 Wayne Zahn was ready to give up the Professional Bowlers' tour. He just wasn't making a living, having been 49th in PBA standings in 1965.

Zahn's problem was a big hook that he couldn't rely on. Then, instead of quitting, Zahn gave it one more try . . . and something happened. At Akron he beat Dick Weber in the Tournament of Champions before a national TV audience for the $25,000 first prize.

Zahn went on to finish in the finals of 12 out of 14 tournaments, setting a new record of $54,670 earnings for the year. He's led the tour in consistently reaching the finals since . . . a young man who wouldn't give up!

T.F. Urban Renewal Plans Nearly Ready

BY FRED DODDS
Times-News Staff Writer

A recommendation on financing and complete plans on a downtown urban renewal project may be presented to the Twin Falls city council in December or early January.

James Kelsch, executive director of the Twin Falls Urban Renewal Agency, made this announcement in a recent interview. He said plans for the downtown project — estimated to cost $1,118,000 — have been completed and work is under way on how to finance the project.

"Our recommendations on financing the project are just that — recommendations," Mr. Kelsch said.

The project area, known as the core area of downtown, has been changed a little since the idea was conceived and the urban renewal agency formed July 19, 1965.

The boundaries now are: From the alley south on Second Street West to the southside of Second Avenue West, then southeast on Second Avenue West to Third Street South, a turn back toward Main Street, across Main Avenue to Second Avenue East, then another turn toward Shoshone Street and on to Second Street North. The boundary then jogs toward Main Avenue again until it reaches the alley between Second Avenue North and Main Avenue. From there it comes back to Second Street East, a turn across Main Avenue to the alley between Main Avenue and Second Avenue West, then on to where the line started.

In all it takes in an area of early Twin Falls buildings, although not all are beyond repair. This entire area is centered in downtown.

But, although plans are done and work is under way on financing, urban renewal is not yet in Twin Falls. There will be public hearings on the urban renewal agency proposals, and there will be advance notice on each of the public hearings.

City Manager Herb Derrick, when contacted, said, "As an administrator, I have no position. It's up to the city council, and I'm sure the council will act on the public's wishes." He said he felt the council would react to the wishes of the "majority."

He said he did not know if a referendum vote on the issue would be called after the agency presents its plans.

Members of the Urban Renewal Agency are Voy Hudson, chairman, Vernon Riddle, L. James Koutnik, Joe Cilek and John Wolfe.

One way in which the project cost may be financed was outlined by Mr. Kelsch. A local improvement district could be formed downtown. Once this is done, application would be made for federal funds to handle the three-fourths of the $1,118,000 cost. The downtown property owner, if the application is approved, would pay the one-fourth balance.

"It may not be fair to tax the entire city when downtown is benefiting," Mr. Kelsch said.

"This is not a firm recommendation, it is just an idea we are working with," he added.

If the project and financing are approved, the project will become a reality. But that reality is a long way off, and public approval has to be gained before anything can be done.

"Something has to be done with downtown," Mr. Kelsch said. "That is why the agency exists." He added that the agency is not acting as a federal government "tool," but he was working with "local people, local ideas and a local problem" to try and solve the problem of downtown.

Mr. Kelsch said he believes downtown "will rise again."

Another way of financing the project could be with private capital and in the words of Mr. Kelsch "is the best way to go, but I feel it can't be done without help."

The project, if completed, will add 248 parking spaces near the downtown area. Presently there are 242.

The members of the agency earmark property in the core area to be upgraded. This can mean remodeling buildings, or tearing down buildings. Power and telephone lines will be buried and streets will be widened. The agency, in connection with property, works closely with engineers and planners on the project.

The agency has to purchase the property concerned, and once property is upgraded and ready for use, it is re-sold.

"All this buying and selling is done at a fair market price. No one gets vast benefit, but no one loses," he said.

He said government controls on this "are very good." He added: "No one gets his pockets lined with gold from urban renewal, contrary to what some people say."

Anyone with questions on urban renewal, Mr. Kelsch said, is welcome to visit the urban renewal office at 362 Third Ave. E. "Their questions will be answered. We've got nothing to hide."

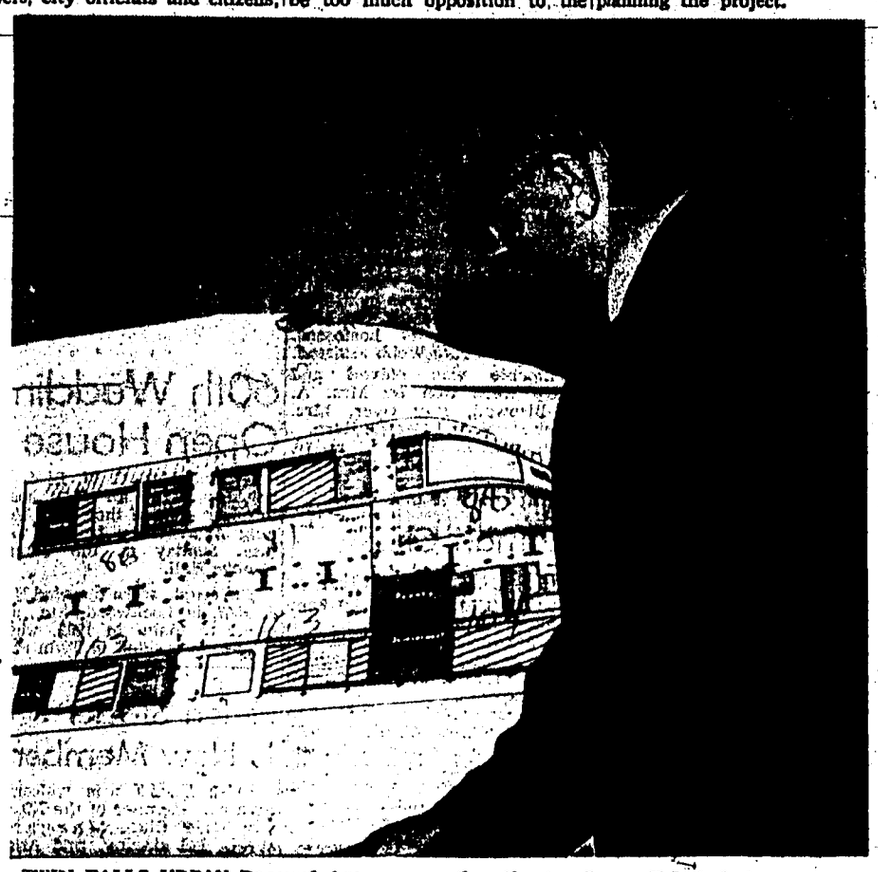

The purpose of the project is to "keep present business there. We will follow the city building and zoning code on this," he said.

The businessmen who will have to move from the core area during construction will get relocation benefits, and will get an option to lease or buy when construction in the area is finished.

Businessmen would like to see something done to improve downtown trade, and the urban renewal project under way is one way to accomplish the goal.

However, the goal, according to urban renewal agency members, city officials and citizens, is far from becoming a reality. Many controversial hurdles have to be overcome. Mr. Kelsch said: "I feel there would not be too much opposition to the project if people only understood what is happening."

A total of $84,000 has been spent to date on salaries and planning the project.

TWIN FALLS URBAN Renewal Agency executive director James Kelsch looks at a map of the downtown core area urban renewal project proposal. Plans are finished. Ways to finance execution of the plan are being studied, and proposals may be presented to the city council in December or early January. The spot on the left bottom of the map is Second Street West at Second Avenue West. The core area is made up of eight half-blocks. The project, if approved, will cost $1,118,000.

Stock Price Changes Stressed By Power Of Big Institutions

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A concentration of power among mammoth and growing institutions such as mutual funds is now tending to accentuate stock price changes in a manner reminiscent of the outlawed pools of the 1930s.

This concentrated buying and selling, which is entirely legal, has fundamentally changed the character of the stock market, an Associated Press study has found.

Federal officials, though deeply concerned, seem to be stymied by a lack of funds and outdated regulations in their investigations of this concentration.

Nevertheless, the shift from a marketplace of random public orders to one more nearly dominated by sheer power appears to account for much of the wide, wild and sometimes destructive price swings and heavy volume of today's market, the study suggests.

Amidst this heavy volume, the very definition of the word "investment" as contrasted to "speculation" has become obscured by mutual funds which buy and sell stocks within weeks in their quest for "performance."

Illustrating the changed conditions are these facts:

1. Mutual funds now control 20 to 30 per cent of the shares of many large corporations, and one-third the value of all shares on the New York Stock Exchange is owned by mutual and pension funds, insurance companies, endowments and bank-administered trusts.

2. More blocks of 10,000 shares or more, indicating institutional buying and selling, have crossed the New York Stock Exchange ticker tape this year than in all 1966. In September alone there were more than 570.

3. Mutual funds are turning over their portfolios at the rate of 40 per cent a year. Several performance funds have rates much higher than this—as much as 100 per cent and more a year.

This institutional speculation, William McChesney Martin told the 175th anniversary celebration of the New York Stock Exchange this year, not only is poisonous but could end disastrously.

Martin, Federal Reserve Board chairman and a former exchange president, suggested that "this cult of short-run market performance" compares in some ways to the outlawed pools, in which traders created activity to attract buying and push up prices.

"Anyone who invests must realize it is a different business than it was 15 years ago," said Ted Lyman, senior vice president of Putnam Management Co., which administers several large funds.

Lyman refers to individual investors—those who purchase stocks directly rather than through mutual funds—as "do-it-yourself investors."

The stock exchanges have courted both individuals and funds. Individual stock ownership has grown from about 6.5 million or less in 1952, the first year a stockholder census was taken, to more than 22 million now.

Institutions have grown even faster. Since 1945 their assets have risen from $88.6 billion to more than $565 billion. In this time, mutual funds have multiplied their assets, mostly in stocks, 100 times to $40 billion.

Despite these developments, the Securities and Exchange Commission is thwarted to some extent by the lack of an over-all study of the effect on prices of this concentration.

"We're not equipped to do it budgetwise," said Mahlon Frankhauser, SEC regional administrator at New York. "Nobody is doing an over-all study." But some of the effects seem to be apparent without a study.

In a few hours last Nov. 18 more than 562,000 shares of Fairchild Camera and Instrument Co., were sold, about 20 per cent of all its shares, and the price plunged more than $19 to $106.75.

Was it possible that for no immediately obvious reason thousands of shareholders all decided to sell at once? Or, more likely, was this an effect of concentrated power?

Institutions such as mutual funds, which pool the investment power of 4 million individuals, were heavily involved in Fairchild. When they decided to sell their holdings their action had the impact of millions of decisions.

A day before this extraordinary selling, a meeting was held at Argus Research, a highly regarded wholesaler of investment information to brokers and analysts.

An Argus spokesman explained later that perhaps 75 of these influential clients heard an analyst give a short discourse on integrated circuits, with the emphasis on possible difficulties ahead for Fairchild.

Selling in Fairchild, as well as in other makers of integrated circuits, began the next day. Long term investors, many of them small, read about their losses the following day.

Some mutual funds concede their trading might have a sharp impact on prices, but they insist a Fairchild affair is a rarity. They claim the funds most often feed out their sales a bit at a time to lessen the impact.

Francis Williams, chairman of the Investment Company Institute, a mutual fund trade association, says: "We don't think the activities of the mutual funds and other institutional investors have a substantial impact on the market. It certainly would take a study to prove otherwise."

But the Federal Reserve's Martin said in a speech that in-out trading by institutions tends to create undesirably volatile price fluctuations. "I find this trend disquieting," he said.

The performance trend of in-but trading has now spread through much of the mutual fund industry and is influencing other institutions also. As a result, concentration, activity and volatility may become even more pronounced.

1st Security Has Declared 75c Dividend

A dividend of 75 cents was declared by directors of the First Security Corp., following a meeting in which it also was announced by George S. Eccles, president and general manager, that the firm has reached a record high of $878,809,687 in assets.

This represents an increase of $71,000,000 over the amount listed at the same time a year ago.

Mr. Eccles said the 75 cent dividend voted by directors brings the total for this year to $1.50 per share. The corporation operates 101 firms in Utah, Idaho and Wyoming and four military banking facilities. Marriner S. Eccles, Salt Lake City, is chairman of the board.

Mr. Eccles also reported net operating earnings for the first nine months of 1967 totaled $5,416,087, or $2.07 per share on 2,632,209 shares. The firm paid $13,277,259 in interest on savings and other deposits. Deposits in the banks at the end of the nine-month period totaled $772,666,141, an increase of $58 million in the past year.

Loans outstanding at the end of the first nine months were reported at $525,695,144 with 98,364 loans made during the nine months.

Mr. Eccles said the firm has completed five new bank buildings including those in Hailey and Ketchum-Sun Valley. He said the economic outlook for the coming months indicates continued heavy demand for credit with upward pressure on interest rates, and heavy demand for public financing by states and municipalities. The next few months, he said, should determine the amount of inflation and the increase in price levels which will be faced.

The pumpkin was acquired in Brigham City, Utah, several days ago and was decorated by the family for Halloween Tuesday. Kneeling beside "The Lug" is the Johnsons' younger son, Dave.

Griffin For President Cards Turning Up In East Detroit

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan is the first to admit it isn't much of a ground swell, that decidedly minor movement to draft him for the Republican presidential nomination. But it's the only one he has.

There's a man in East Detroit, the home territory of Michigan Gov. George Romney, dispatching postcards urging a Griffin draft in 1968. Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., got one of the cards and sent it along to Griffin with a note reminding his fellow first-term colleague:

"George isn't going to like this."

George Romney is on the verge of declaring himself a candidate for the White House nomination in 1968. And Griffin is a Romney man.

"George Romney has several problems these days, but this is certainly not one of them," Griffin said. "Whatever ground swell there is is still a long way underground."

Draft Griffin postcards began turning up in the senator's office six weeks ago. They were signed by Richard J. O'Halloran of East Detroit. The message:

"The people of Michigan should draft the Hon. Robert P. Griffin for the R. nomination for president. U.S. Sen. Robert P. Griffin has youth and experience and would be a winner."

The cards were relayed to Griffin by colleagues in the Senate and the House, where he formerly served. Members of Congress apparently formed a large part of the mailing list.

A Griffin aide called O'Halloran, and said the man told him he is 74, a retired industrial plant worker, and turned out the post card messages on a printing press in his basement.

"We don't even know this fellow personally," Griffin said.

The senator said he has not discussed the gentle draft with Romney. "I never took it seriously enough."

Griffin is serving his first elective term in the Senate after winning five terms in the House. He was elected to the Senate a year ago in a Michigan GOP triumph which helped establish Romney's credentials as a candidate who could help pull other Republicans to victory.

A Column for Sports Fans

By Bob Reese

Sometimes the thin line between being a champion or an also-ran is a matter of simply not quitting.

Back in 1966 Wayne Zahn was ready to give up the Professional Bowlers' tour. He just wasn't making a living, having been 49th in PBA standings in 1965.

Zahn's problem was a big hook that he couldn't rely on. Then, instead of quitting, Zahn gave it one more try . . . and something happened. At Akron he beat Dick Weber in the Tournament of Champions before a national TV audience for the $25,000 first prize.

Zahn went on to finish in the finals of 12 out of 14 tournaments, setting a new record of $54,670 earnings for the year. He's led the tour in consistently reaching the finals since . . . a young man who wouldn't give up!

T.F. Urban Renewal Plans Nearly Ready

BY FRED DODDS
Times-News Staff Writer

A recommendation on financing and complete plans on a downtown urban renewal project may be presented to the Twin Falls city council in December or early January.

James Kelsch, executive director of the Twin Falls Urban Renewal Agency, made this announcement in a recent interview. He said plans for the downtown project — estimated to cost $1,118,000 — have been completed and work is under way on how to finance the project.

"Our recommendations on financing the project are just that — recommendations," Mr. Kelsch said.

The project area, known as the core area of downtown, has been changed a little since the idea was conceived and the urban renewal agency formed July 19, 1965.

The boundaries now are: From the alley south on Second Street West to the southside of Second Avenue West, then southeast on Second Avenue West to Third Street South, a turn back toward Main Street, across Main Avenue to Second Avenue East, then another turn toward Shoshone Street and on to Second Street North. The boundary then jogs toward Main Avenue again until it reaches the alley between Second Avenue North and Main Avenue. From there it comes back to Second Street East, a turn across Main Avenue to the alley between Main Avenue and Second Avenue West, then on to where the line started.

In all it takes in an area of early Twin Falls buildings, although not all are beyond repair. This entire area is centered in downtown.

But, although plans are done and work is under way on financing, urban renewal is not yet in Twin Falls. There will be public hearings on the urban renewal agency proposals, and there will be advance notice on each of the public hearings.

City Manager Herb Derrick, when contacted, said, "As an administrator, I have no position. It's up to the city council, and I'm sure the council will act on the public's wishes." He said he felt the council would react to the wishes of the "majority."

He said he did not know if a referendum vote on the issue would be called after the agency presents its plans.

Members of the Urban Renewal Agency are Voy Hudson, chairman, Vernon Riddle, L. James Koutnik, Joe Cilek and John Wolfe.

One way in which the project cost may be financed was outlined by Mr. Kelsch. A local improvement district could be formed downtown. Once this is done, application would be made for federal funds to handle the three-fourths of the $1,118,000 cost. The downtown property owner, if the application is approved, would pay the one-fourth balance.

"It may not be fair to tax the entire city when downtown is benefiting," Mr. Kelsch said.

"This is not a firm recommendation, it is just an idea we are working with," he added.

If the project and financing are approved, the project will become a reality. But that reality is a long way off, and public approval has to be gained before anything can be done.

"Something has to be done with downtown," Mr. Kelsch said. "That is why the agency exists." He added that the agency is not acting as a federal government "tool," but he was working with "local people, local ideas and a local problem" to try and solve the problem of downtown.

Mr. Kelsch said he believes downtown "will rise again."

Another way of financing the project could be with private capital and in the words of Mr. Kelsch "is the best way to go, but I feel it can't be done without help."

The project, if completed, will add 248 parking spaces near the downtown area. Presently there are 242.

The members of the agency earmark property in the core area to be upgraded. This can mean remodeling buildings, or tearing down buildings. Power and telephone lines will be buried and streets will be widened. The agency, in connection with property, works closely with engineers and planners on the project.

The agency has to purchase the property concerned, and once property is upgraded and ready for use, it is re-sold.

"All this buying and selling is done at a fair market price. No one gets vast benefit, but no one loses," he said.

He said government controls on this "are very good." He added: "No one gets his pockets lined with gold from urban renewal, contrary to what some people say."

Anyone with questions on urban renewal, Mr. Kelsch said, is welcome to visit the urban renewal office at 362 Third Ave. E. "Their questions will be answered. We've got nothing to hide."

The purpose of the project is to "keep present business there. We will follow the city building and zoning code on this," he said.

The businessmen who will have to move from the core area during construction will get relocation benefits, and will get an option to lease or buy when construction in the area is finished.

Businessmen would like to see something done to improve downtown trade, and the urban renewal project under way is one way to accomplish the goal.

However, the goal, according to urban renewal agency members, city officials and citizens, is far from becoming a reality. Many controversial hurdles have to be overcome. Mr. Kelsch said: "I feel there would not be too much opposition to the project if people only understood what is happening."

A total of $84,000 has been spent to date on salaries and planning the project.

TWIN FALLS URBAN Renewal Agency executive director James Kelsch looks at a map of the downtown core area urban renewal project proposal. Plans are finished. Ways to finance execution of the plan are being studied, and proposals may be presented to the city council in December or early January. The spot on the left bottom of the map is Second Street West at Second Avenue West. The core area is made up of eight half-blocks. The project, if approved, will cost $1,118,000.

Stock Price Changes Stressed By Power Of Big Institutions

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A concentration of power among mammoth and growing institutions such as mutual funds is now tending to accentuate stock price changes in a manner reminiscent of the outlawed pools of the 1930s.

This concentrated buying and selling, which is entirely legal, has fundamentally changed the character of the stock market, an Associated Press study has found.

Federal officials, though deeply concerned, seem to be stymied by a lack of funds and outdated regulations in their investigations of this concentration.

Nevertheless, the shift from a marketplace of random public orders to one more nearly dominated by sheer power appears to account for much of the wide, wild and sometimes destructive price swings and heavy volume of today's market, the study suggests.

Amidst this heavy volume, the very definition of the word "investment" as contrasted to "speculation" has become obscured by mutual funds which buy and sell stocks within weeks in their quest for "performance."

Illustrating the changed conditions are these facts:

1. Mutual funds now control 20 to 30 per cent of the shares of many large corporations, and one-third the value of all shares on the New York Stock Exchange is owned by mutual and pension funds, insurance companies, endowments and bank-administered trusts.

2. More blocks of 10,000 shares or more, indicating institutional buying and selling, have crossed the New York Stock Exchange ticker tape this year than in all 1966. In September alone there were more than 570.

3. Mutual funds are turning over their portfolios at the rate of 40 per cent a year. Several performance funds have rates much higher than this—as much as 100 per cent and more a year.

This institutional speculation, William McChesney Martin told the 175th anniversary celebration of the New York Stock Exchange this year, not only is poisonous but could end disastrously.

Martin, Federal Reserve Board chairman and a former exchange president, suggested that "this cult of short-run market performance" compares in some ways to the outlawed pools, in which traders created activity to attract buying and push up prices.

"Anyone who invests must realize it is a different business than it was 15 years ago," said Ted Lyman, senior vice president of Putnam Management Co., which administers several large funds.

Lyman refers to individual investors—those who purchase stocks directly rather than through mutual funds—as "do-it-yourself investors."

The stock exchanges have courted both individuals and funds. Individual stock ownership has grown from about 6.5 million or less in 1952, the first year a stockholder census was taken, to more than 22 million now.

Institutions have grown even faster. Since 1945 their assets have risen from $88.6 billion to more than $565 billion. In this time, mutual funds have multiplied their assets, mostly in stocks, 100 times to $40 billion.

Despite these developments, the Securities and Exchange Commission is thwarted to some extent by the lack of an over-all study of the effect on prices of this concentration.

"We're not equipped to do it budgetwise," said Mahlon Frankhauser, SEC regional administrator at New York. "Nobody is doing an over-all study." But some of the effects seem to be apparent without a study.

In a few hours last Nov. 18 more than 562,000 shares of Fairchild Camera and Instrument Co., were sold, about 20 per cent of all its shares, and the price plunged more than $19 to $106.75.

Was it possible that for no immediately obvious reason thousands of shareholders all decided to sell at once? Or, more likely, was this an effect of concentrated power?

Institutions such as mutual funds, which pool the investment power of 4 million individuals, were heavily involved in Fairchild. When they decided to sell their holdings their action had the impact of millions of decisions.

A day before this extraordinary selling, a meeting was held at Argus Research, a highly regarded wholesaler of investment information to brokers and analysts.

Women's Section

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am going to be married soon, and am facing a big problem. My father has had a nervous tic for years, which causes him to jerk his head back involuntarily every few seconds. He winks one eye when he jerks, which has caused him to be misunderstood by strange women when he walks down the street. (It looks like a gesture which means, "Come along with me.")

Anyway, I know it's customary for a bride to be escorted down the aisle on her father's arm, but Abby, how about this tic of his? All the folks on my side who will be at the wedding know my father and are used to his nervous tic. But how about those on my fiance's side who live out of town and have never seen my father before?

I want my wedding to be a beautiful solemn affair, and I'm afraid my father might cause a few to laugh. Please advise me.

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: How does your father feel about it? If he is self-conscious about his tic, and indicates that he would rather not escort you down the aisle, ask a substitute. (An uncle, cousin, dear friend, or adult brother, if you have one.) But if your father would feel slighted to be denied that privilege, let him. Chances are, your fiance's family will have been clued in about your father's tic before the wedding march begins.

DEAR ABBY: Ever since I was 13 I have liked Rick, the boy who lives across the street from me. I just turned 16 and Rick is 18. Last year, when I was only 15, Rick asked my mother when I could date. She told him when I reached 16. Well, I have been 16 for two weeks already and Rick hasn't asked me out yet. Maybe he doesn't know I'm 16 now.

Rick had a girl friend, but one of my friends told me he didn't like her that much anymore. What should I do?

WAITING

DEAR WAITING: Wait.

DEAR ABBY: I usually bottle my feelings up inside me so I won't become a nag. My husband works very hard. He's a machinist. Naturally because of his work his clothes get very dirty and greasy. When he comes home, he likes to relax, and I think he should be able to, but he either sits or lies on the front room furniture in his dirty work clothes. How would you handle this? I'm ready to crown him.

JENNIE

DEAR JENNIE: A man's home is his castle, but don't "crown" him. Buy some plastic covers for your furniture. Or use old bedspreads.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow. O, my husband still has a heartbeat, but he has "passed on" in another sense. I can't get any conversation out of him during the dinner hour. He comes to the table and fills up his plate, buffet style, then carries it to the living room to watch television while he eats.

I am not stupid. I am a college graduate, so it's not as though I can't carry on an intelligent conversation.

Should I stick my foot through the picture tube? Or maybe I should try wearing a wooden cabinet instead of a dress?

I wonder how many other women are in competition with the television set?

IGNORED

DEAR IGNORED: Obviously, your husband finds television more fascinating than your conversation. He is being rude, of course, to desert you at dinner time, but you can't force him to remain and converse with you. And if you could, his attitude would probably be so condescending you'd soon be begging him to go watch television.

The film, "Effects of Narcotics," is one Ernest Marlowe, juvenile officer for the Twin Falls police department, wishes to procure to show to groups in the community.

An article entitled, "Nothing Fits Like a Glove, Not Even a Glove," was read by Mrs. John Parish.

It was announced the November meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. R. Ellenwood.

Magic Valley Favorites

MRS. FRED NEVOLA
Route 2, Rupert

Pumpkin Date Torte

½ cup chopped dates
½ cup chopped California walnuts
2 tablespoons flour
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 cup brown sugar
2-3 cup cooked pumpkin
2 eggs
½ cup sifted all purpose flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon ginger
¼ teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix dates, nuts and two tablespoons flour. Set aside.

Melt butter over low heat, then blend in brown sugar. Remove from heat and stir in pumpkin and vanilla. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Sift together dry ingredients. Add to pumpkin mixture, mixing thoroughly. Stir in floured dates and nuts.

Turn into a greased 9- by 1½-inch round baking pan. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 20 to 25 minutes. Serve warm with whipped cream.

Makes eight servings.

(The Times-News will pay $5 each week for the best recipe submitted for Magic Valley Favorites. If you have a favorite recipe, just mail it to the Recipe Department, Women's Page Editor. The recipe becomes the property of the Times-News and cannot be returned.)

60th Wedding Anniversary Open House Slated Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Bird will be honored at an open house in observance of their 60th Wedding Anniversary from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday at the Jerome Grange Hall.

The couple were married Nov. 6, 1907, in Lockwood, Mo., and came to Idaho in 1909, where they have resided in Twin Falls area since that time. They farmed in the Sugar Loaf Valley, east of Jerome, since 1916. In the early days, they worked for the late I. B. Perrine at the Blue Lakes Ranch.

The couple has two sons, Earl Bird, Twin Falls, and Howard Bird, Firth. Their sons and their wives are hosting the open house.

Mr. and Mrs. Bird are members of the Jerome Bible Baptist Church. After retiring from farming the couple moved back to Twin Falls.

All relatives and friends are invited to the open house. The couple requests no gifts.

Today's Market and Financial Report

Stocks

2:30 P.M. SUMMARY

NEW YORK (AP) — General Motors turned weaker late this afternoon and the stock market was irregularly lower. Trading was active.

GM stretched an early loss to about 2 points. The stock reacted early in the session to publication of an article in the Wall Street Journal saying that the Justice Department is readying an antitrust suit aimed at breaking up GM. The department said no suit was imminent.

Airlines declined following disappointing September results. Eastern lost 2 while American and United lost more than a point.

Rails were lower as lower pofits were forecast. Most declines were fractional. Illinois Central rose more than a point.

Knott Hotels spurted about 4 points. Merger rumors were denied.

Strength was shown by many active issues, among them Boeing which leaped 5 points on word of a sharp increase in quarterly profits. Also, Pan American Sulphur and Hunt Foods advanced about 3 each, General Host Corp. more than 2.

Loses of a point or more were taken by Du Pont, Reynolds Tobacco, Royal Dutch, Xerox, IBM, General Electric and Goodrich.

M-G-M gained more than 2, RCA about 1½.

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange.

Grain

CHICAGO (AP) — All grain futures prices advanced on the Chicago Board of Trade today, influenced largely in the belief that the government stockpile bill now in Congress has a chance of survival.

Prices had hovered between an irregular tone and lower basis through most of the session until the last hour when an upward movement began.

Trade sources expressed the belief that the so-called Purcell bill, which would create wheat, corn and soybean stockpiles, might be favorably read out by a House Agricultural subcommittee.

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. Steel's decision to order "the largest and most modern vessel ever built for service on the Great Lakes" may mark a turning point for a lake shipping industry that has been listing badly.

Although the states bordering the lakes have nearly one-half the nation's manufacturing capacity, the lake ships haven't been carrying their share of it. Earnings have been falling, ships are old, and some attitudes have not been the kind that solve problems.

No American ship has been built for the Great Lakes trade since 1960. The number of freighters has, in fact, diminished by nearly a quarter. Two-thirds of fleet capacity is at least 20 years old; 50 per cent of the U.S. fleet was built before 1937. Problems, it seems, have been the biggest cargo. Despite the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway, overseas trade of the big lake ports has been retarded by what shippers refer to as "predatory" rail charges to the docks.

Canada has helped subsidize its lake fleet, and 50 modern Canadian ships now ply the lake routes. This has largely pushed U.S. ships out of the U.S.-Canada service.

The combination of problems naturally has been reflected in lower cargoes and earnings. Tonnage in the second quarter this year fell to 2.309 billion ton-miles from 2.511 ton-miles a year earlier. Revenues fell to $8 million from $8.7 million.

Into this gray and stormy picture the U.S. Steel decision was delivered. The company, whose 49 vessels make it the largest fleet operator on the lakes, ordered a vessel capable of carrying 45,000 tons of iron ore.

This ship will be 858 feet long and 105 feet across, making it the largest on the lakes by a length of 128 feet and a width of 30 feet. It will, incidentally, be "trapped" in lake service, too large to reach the oceans.

It will be innovative, with pollution control equipment installed and with machinery capable of automatic unloading at dockside. Because of technological advances, the cost of lake shipping, already low, may become even more economical.

What is perhaps more important than this first order is evidence now that many more ships soon will be commissioned, attracted by the savings possible through the use of lighter but higher strength metals, automated machinery and computerized control.

American Shipbuilding Co. of Lorain, Ohio, who will build the big U.S. Steel carrier, expects more orders to follow soon.

The battle may be reaching a turning point also in the competition with railroads. Lake ports feel they cannot develop their abilities to ship overseas without more favorable rail rates to dockside.

Various groups are pressuring for subsidies for new ship construction and shortened depreciation for tax purposes on the grounds that the industry is essential to the entire nation.

Gooding Man To Speak at ISU

GOODING — Stanford Rupert, principal of the Idaho School for the Deaf and Blind, Gooding, will speak to two meetings on the Idaho State University campus Wednesday.

At 7 p.m. Wednesday in Room 104 in Swanson Hall, Mr. Rupert will speak to the public, particularly all interested parents of deaf children, on the subject, "Cued Speech—New Method of Teaching Speech to the Deaf." At 1 p.m. he will repeat the talk in the same location for the benefit of students and staff members of the ISU Speech and Hearing Clinic.

Mr. Rupert spent two weeks last summer at a workshop on teaching speech to the deaf held at Gallaudet College, Washington, D.C.

The Daily Investor

By WILLIAM A. DOYLE

Q. I attended a forum on estate planning, at which reference was made to the tax status of stocks held over a long period of time and then willed to heirs, as the result of death. As understood by me, the stock is transferred at the market value existing at the time of the death. Even though the value of the stock may have increased since the time it was purchased, its valuation to the new owner starts at the time he takes ownership.

Thus, the heir does not have to pay a capital-gains tax, if he sells the stock. The person explaining this said, "The capital-gains tax disappears." Can this be true?

A. Just about. When a person inherits stock and then sells it, he isn't stuck with a fat capital gains tax on the difference between the original cost aof the stock and his selling price.

The easy way to explain this is to give a step-by-step example. Say that you bought 100 shares of XYZ common stock, at $10 a share, years ago — for a total cost of $1,000. That's your "cost basis."

And let's say that the stock has gone way up, and now has a market value of $5,000 If you sell, you realize a profit of $4,000 — which would then be taxable as a capital gain.

Now, let's say that you leave this vale of tears. For the person you leave it to, that stock takes on a new cost basis — most likely $5,000. Your heir's cost basis becomes the valuation put on the stock for the purposes of settling your estate.

In most cases, your heir's cost basis would be the market value of the stock on the date of your death. But there is an alternative method — through which the market value of the stock exactly one year after your death would be used.

In either case, your heir's cost basis on the stock is established after you die. In this example, say that he sells the stock for $6,000. If his cost basis has been established at $5,000, he has a profit of $1,000 — taxable as a capital gain.

Your heir is not required to pay a capital-gains tax on the $4,000 difference between the $1,000 price you paid for the stock and the $5,000 value of the stock when you die. The capital-gains tax on the $4,000 does disappear — because the stock takes on a new cost basis, as the result of your death.

Remember that we have been talking only about capital-gains taxes — which can run as high as 25 per cent. If your estate is big enough, it will be subject to Federal estate taxes and-or state estate or inheritance taxes. That's a different story.

Q. I own a number of preferred stocks. In stock market listings, where prices are given, I see such numbers as "93¼" and indications that "quarterly dividends" are "1.37½." Then, I see reports of "earnings for the fiscal year equalling $88.45, compared with $77.96 a year ago." What do all these figures mean?

A. One at a time.

The "93¼" is the market price of the stock. That's the price at which it sold on a particular day — $93.25 a share. The market price of a stock, of course, can change from day to day or from minute to minute.

The "1.37½ quarterly dividend" means that stockholders receive dividends of $1.37½ on each share of that stock every three months. That is a total of $5.50 a share a year.

The earnings figures ($88.45 compared with $77.96) tells you how much profit the company made in a year on each share of stock outstanding — owned by stockholders.

Say that the company had a net profit of $88,450.000 in its latest fiscal (bookkeeping) year and that the company has one million shares of preferred stock outstanding. Earnings per preferred share work out to $88.45.

On preferred stocks, earnings per share don't mean too much. This example simply shows that the company will have no trouble making its steady dividend payments on the preferred.

Assault Hearing Begins In Court

A preliminary hearing for Leland Allmon, Twin Falls, charged with assault with a deadly weapon began Tuesday in Twin Falls Police Court.

Allmon, who has been free on bond, is accused of shooting Albert Martinez, Twin Falls, in the St. Regis bar March 2. Mr. Martinez was present for the Tuesday hearing but was confined to a wheelchair. The hearing has been delayed pending his recovery from the injury.

St. Louis' And Boston's World Series Shares Are Smallest In Recent Years

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Each winning St. Louis Cardinal will receive $8,314.81 and each losing Boston Red Sox $5,115.23 from the World Series, the smallest shares in recent years.

Because of the limited capacity of the Boston park where only 35,188 could be packed in, the Cards' share was more than $4,000 short of the all-time winning record of $12,794.00 by the 1963 Los Angeles Dodgers. The Red Sox checks were far short of the record of $8,189.36 by the losing Dodgers in 1966.

It was the smallest winning share since the New York Yankees of 1961 got $7,389.13 and the smallest losing check since the old Brooklyn Dodgers of 1952 received $4,200.64. Last year when Baltimore swept four straight from Los Angeles, each Oriole's cut was $11,683.04.

The small payoffs, a sharp contrast to the $15,000 for the Super Bowl winner and $7,500 for the loser, plus $9,813.63 for the National Football League championship, was sure to renew pressure by those who favor a guaranteed check for Series winners and losers, regardless of park size.

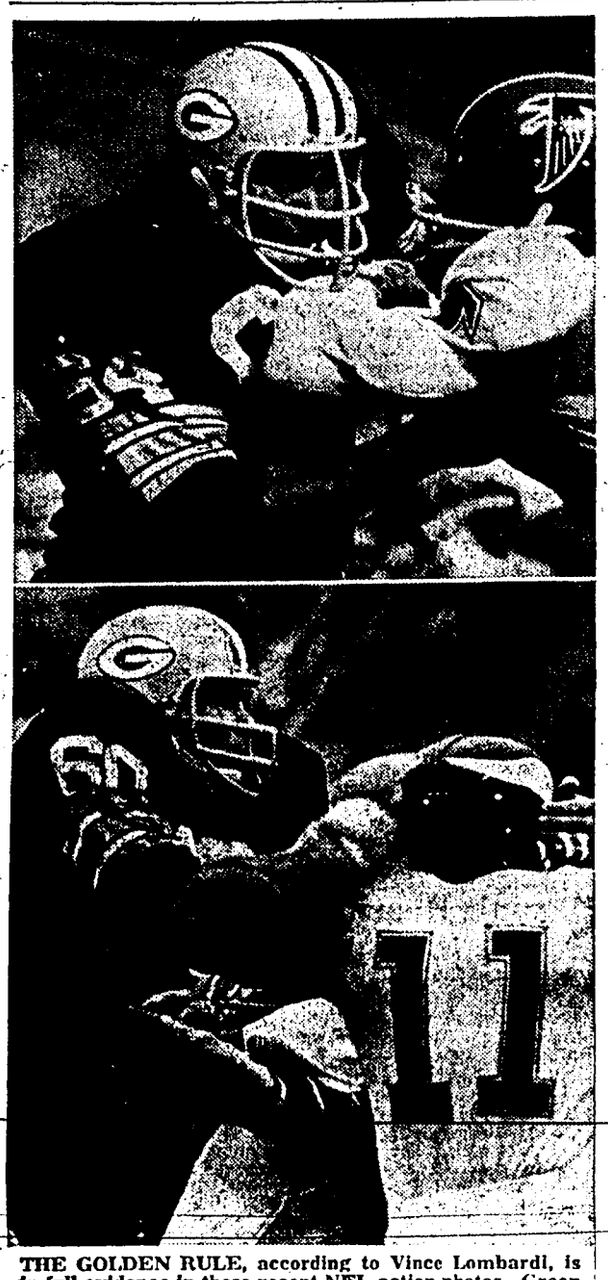

St. Louis gave out 34 full shares, including one to Jack Lamabe, who came to the Cards from the New York Mets July 16, and voted three one-quarter shares as well as $1,600 in cash awards.

Boston voted 31 full shares, eight one-half shares, two one-third shares and also made 15 other cash awards totalling $11,250. Dennis Bennett, traded to the Mets in late June, got a one-half share of $2,557.62 as did Elston Howard, acquired from the New York Yankees in August.

Gary Waslewski, the starting pitcher in the sixth game who shuttled between Boston and Toronto during the season, was voted a one-half share. Ken Harrelson, made a free agent by Charley Finley after the big fuss at Kansas City and signed by Boston for a reported $75,000, got a one-third share of $1,705.06.

The Red Sox also voted $1,000 to the Jimmy Fund, a local charity, and gave young Ken Brett, a lefty pitcher brought up in late season, a check for $1,000.

The series splits, announced by Commissioner William D. Eckert Monday, covered players on the first five clubs in each league. They varied, depending on the number of players involved. Of course, the Series participants get the bulk of the player pool from the first four games and split on a 60-40 win-lose basis.

THE GOLDEN RULE, according to Vince Lombardi, is in full evidence in these recent NFL action photos. Green Bay's strategy of do unto others before they do unto you is portrayed, top, by Packer guard Jerry Kramer (64) as he whips a crunching block on a rushing Atlanta Falcon defender and by linebacker Lee Roy Caffey (60) as he attempts to use Minnesota Viking quarterback Joe Kapp as a corkscrew. Kapp managed to keep his head, however, and he and his mates went on to upset the Pack.

O. J. SIMPSON of Southern Cal, the nation's leading ground gainer this season, looked like this at his home in Los Angeles Monday, with his wife, Marguerite, applying ice pack to his injured right foot. Simpson is on crutches because of a sprain he suffered during Saturday's game. He'll definitely miss the upcoming game against California and could be out the rest of the season. (AP wirephoto)

Southern Cal May Lose Ace Halfback

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Southern California's top-ranked Trojans face the possibility of going the rest of the season without ace halfback O. J. Simpson the nation's leading rusher.

Simpson's foot injury, suffered in the 28-6 victory over Oregon, was diagnosed as more serious than anticipated—a sprain in the right arch.

Coach John McKay declared Simpson out indefinitely although O. J. said, "The doctors told me maybe two weeks."

Still on the docket of the undefeated and untied Trojans are California, Oregon State and UCLA in that order.

"O. J. is the one who got us where we are," said McKay. "Now we've got to do it on our own."

In seven games with USC, after joining the Trojans this year as a junior college transfer from City College of San Francisco, Simpson has rushed for 1,050 yards and passed for 42 more, 3 of the aerials going for touchdowns.

McKay hopes Simpson can return for the Oregon State and UCLA games, but added, "He can't run now, and if he can't run, he can't help us. I doubt if he'll play much more football for us—if any—this season. The doctors tell me he is out indefinitely. He is on crutches now."

After suffering the injury, Simpson was able to walk and this brought original optimism that he would be out only a couple of days.

Loss of Simpson was the second blow to the Trojan backfield. Earlier fullback Mill Hull was lost for the season with a knee injury.

Taking over for O. J. in the key halfback slot is senior Steve Grady who rushed for 108 yards in 18 carries against Oregon. He moves with power but lacks the speed and deceptiveness of Simpson, a 9.4-second man in the 100-yard dash.

3 Suspended From Georgia Grid Squad

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Running back Brad Johnson, safety Jake Scott and offensive tackle Wayne Byrd were suspended indefinitely from the Georgia football squad for violating curfew over the weekend, Coach Vince Dooley said Monday.

Johnson, a junior who backs up the starters at both fullback and tailback, had gained 184 yards rushing for the sixth-ranked Bulldogs, who play at Houston Saturday night.

Scott, a sophomore, was the starting safety and one of Georgia's top defensive players in the secondary.

Byrd, a sophomore, was the No. 2 offensive tackle.

"These players violated the curfew rule over the past weekend," Dooley said in announcing the suspensions. "We have taken disciplinary measures against them, including indefinite suspension from the squad."

Plan Revealed Concerning Prep Tourney

BOISE (AP) — Idaho's big school state prep basketball tournament will be moved from Boise one year in four under a plan approved by the Idaho Interscholastic Activities Association, Executive Secretary Homer Williams announced Monday.

It will be at Capital High School in Boise — its site for the past couple of years—again in 1968 but in 1969 will be at Pocatello, in the Idaho State University gymnasium.

Thereafter it will be held in Pocatello once each four years with Boise as the site in the three other years.

For 1968 the other state prep tournaments will be in Pocatello, for class A-2; Burley, for class A-3, and Lewiston for class A-1.

All 1968 tourneys will be played March 7-9.

UCLA's Track Star Is Also Football Team's Secret Weapon

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Zenon Andrusyshyn, one of Canada's finest javelin throwers, came to UCLA on a track scholarship.

So, in this off-season, Zenon is something of a sensation as a place kicker on the Bruin football team and a very important young man in the team's Rose Bowl campaign. The showdown for the bowl game may come Nov. 18 when Zenon and his fellow Bruins face unbeaten Southern California Trojans.

Football writers visiting the Los Angeles campus before the season opened, were astonished when the dark-haired, strapping sophomore began to bombard the uprights, kicking soccer-style.

The series began at the 25-35-yard line with the goal posts set back 10 yards — and the kicks gradually were moved back. He was successful in two of three attempts at 57 yards.

He then moved back and sent one in from 63 yards.

After practicing at least 30 minutes, he called it quits. By this time the entire Bruin squad lined up to watch and cheer.

During another practice session, Zenon booted his longest field goal—a kick that measured 65 yards.

But, said one critic, this was only practice. What about a real game, with the rush on?

After five games this 20-year-old phenomenon was the nation's second best kick-scorer with 41 points. Zenon had booted 17 of 19 conversions and made good on eight of 16 field goal attempts. In overall scoring he ranked ninth.

How did it all happen.

Last spring Andrusyshyn was bothered by a sore elbow and couldn't compete in either the javelin or discus events.

Zenon's attention idly turned to spring football practice. He wasn't particularly impressed with the Bruin's place kickers, and decided to give it a try himself.

At first, Zenon was dissatisfied because he couldn't seem to succeed from 45 yards.

Only then did he discover that Americans used a kicking tee. That was all he needed.

"The main thing in kicking field goals or conversions," says Zenon, "is concentration. With people diving and jumping around, you must keep your eyes on the ball and not on them."

Professional football in the future? The Olympic Games as a competitor for Canada next year? Zenon says pro football is too far away to think about and he'll wait until next fall to make up his mind about either the Olympics in Mexico or football for UCLA.

Small Portion Of Ball Saves Nicklaus' Win

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Cut a golf ball in half and see who will give you $8,000 for it.

And what would you say if that little hemisphere would make you the leading money-winner for all of 1967 among the professional golfers?

Since a ball is ruled out of bounds only when all of it is beyond the boundary, the tee shot which Jack Nicklaus hit on the 18th hole in Saturday's final round of the Sahara Invitational tournament was ruled playable.

Only half of it, precisely, .840 of an inch, was beyond the boundary so Nicklaus played it for his 71-270 and the $20,000 first prize.

Steve Spray, in his best PGA finish ever, carded a 271 for $12,000, his best purse ever but still less by $8,000 than the check Nicklaus received. That boosted Jack to $188,999.08 for the campaign and shoved him past Arnold Palmer in the money chase.

United States Open champion Nicklaus now is referred to in some circles af "The Sheik," king of the desert. For of the 27-year old golfer's 25 tournament victories, five have come at Las Vegas—three times in the Sahara and twice in the Tournament of Champions.

Now he heads for golfing in Australia while the other tournament pros, including Palmer, play in the Hawaiian Open starting Thursday. Should Arnie score well and go ahead again in the money battle, Nicklaus will play in the Cajun Classic at Lafayette, La. Otherwise, he'll restrict his tournament play to the World Cup in Mexico City where he teams with Palmer in two weeks.

Hodges Likes To Pick His Own Staff

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

"You know," Gil Hodges was saying one day last spring at Pompano Beach, Fla., where the Washington Senators were playing a squad game, "I never would have stayed as manager of this club if I couldn't have picked my own coaches.

"A manager is no good to anybody if he can't have the kind of coaches he wants. He must know his coaches."

And now that Gil Hodges is the new manager of the New York Mets he still feels the same way.

His coaches are Eddie Yost (third base), Joe Pignatano (bullpen) and Al Rube Walker (dugout).

What it really means is that Hodges was able to get what he wanted in his three-year agreement with Bing Devine of the Mets.

"Yost was with the Senators when I went there," Gil Hodges was saying the other day. "But I knew about his fine reputation.

"Piggy I knew from our Brooklyn Dodger days when he used to train at Vero Beach. He was always alert and since he also lived in Brooklyn we got to know each other quite well. I guess you could say we were brothers. After all, I married an Italian girl.

"Joe is a hard worker and I'm sure he can help pitchers and catchers on the Mets. Maybe he's no Roy Campanella or a Yogi Berra with the bat but he sure makes a study of the game.

"Incidentally I'm glad to have Yogi stay on at first base. This fellow has been a great asset to baseball.

"Regarding Rube Walker. Well, he managed over five years in the minors and I was fortunate to get him as a coach along with Piggy at the start of 1965. Rube will be our pitching coach and sit on the bench. He has the ability to get things through to players.

"When you know coaches like these men it makes your job that much easier. A manager has to be able to place confidence in his coaches and it also is important that the coaches know the manager."

Two days after Hodges and the Mets announced their 1968 coaches, a call was put through to Senator General Manager George Selkirk in Washington.

"Has Gil announced his new coaches yet?" the former Yankee right fielder asked.

"Haven't you read the papers?" Selkirk was asked.

"Not lately," handsome George replied. "I've been in Chicago at the meetings."

"Well," Selkirk was told, "Gil has taken your three coaches—Yost, Pignatano and Walker."

Selkirk always was a good winner. And now, having lost Hodges he might be considered a gracious loser.

Parsons' Coach Is Upset With Officials

By JAMES RAGSDALE
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP)—What Parsons College coach Marcelino "Chela" Huerta Jr. had to say about the officiating Saturday against the University of Idaho can't be printed in newspapers.

Huerta's Wildcats had just lost a 28-27 thriller to the Vandals when he blamed officials in pointed terms for some of his woes.

The Vandals, anxious to topple the big and heralded Wildcats from Fairfield, Iowa, capitalized on a string of Parsons mistakes to build up a 21-7 lead going into the fourth quarter.

But that's when Huerta's boys—featuring quarterback Daynor Prince, big Frank Antonini and Allen Marcelin—broke loose to chop away Idaho's lead.

Parsons hadn't scored since the first quarter when in the fourth quarter Antonini plunged for a TD—the second of three—with barely a minute gone. Two other quickie scores ensued, at 5:38 to play and again with 1:41 remaining.

Idaho also scored again in the fourth period — on a 72-yard breakaway romp by quarterback Steve Garman—then held its breath. With 21 seconds remaining and behind by one point, Parsons kicking specialist John O'Dell kicked the winning field goal try wide of the uprights.

Then it was all over, but Huerta had some choice remarks about the officiating. He referred to the 81 yards in penalties assessed against the Wildcats, including two for roughing the kicker.

Another penalty came at a crucial stage in the fourth quarter. O'Dell has missed an extra point kick and Parsons later regained the loss with a Prince pass to Mickey Waldrup. But after the third fourth-period score, Parsons was called for an ineligible receiver down field on the conversion and the score rested, 28-27.

Garman, picking up two touchdowns himself, engineered the Vandals to 214 yards rushing and 87 in the air. His payoff play of the day was a fast down-and-in pass pattern to lanky end Jerry Hendron. This play set up two of Idaho's scores, with Hendron accounting for 83 yards during the day.

In the final period, playing against Idaho defensive reserves called to fill in for injured players, Prince completely befuddled the Vandals with the pass. Prince tossed Parsons to 274 yards in the air and 145 rushing for the day.

Promotional Wheels Busy After Fight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Boxing's promotional wheels spun today in the wake of young Jerry Quarry's controversial split decision over Floyd Patterson in the international elimination series designed to fill the vacant heavyweight title picture.

While the merits of the 12-round decision were heatedly debated, Quarry stands as the official winner and is in a good position to designate his next opponent.

It could be the winner of the Jimmy Ellis-Oscar Bonavena fight scheduled in Louisville, Ky., next month, or it could be Jerry's fellow Californian, Thad Spencer of San Francisco.

Spencer eliminated Ernie Terrell in thorough fashion in Houston, Tex., in September and the impression prevailed that if Quarry whipped Patterson it would be box-office logic for Jerry and Spencer to meet in an all-California semi-final of the tournament.

Referee Vern Bybee, imported from San Francisco to handle the Patterson bout, scored it a draw, while judges Lee Grossman and Joey Olmos of Los Angeles gave it to Quarry by one point.

Patterson was disappointed after the setback and hinted that his retirement "might not be too far away."

Patterson May Retire From Ring

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Floyd Patterson, battered and bruised after losing a controversial decision to youthful Jerry Quarry Saturday, says he may retire from the ring.

Patterson would make only one comment regarding his future plans: "Rretirement may be in sight."

Patterson made it clear he was disappointed with the decision that put him out of the running for the heavyweight crown formerly owned by Cassius Clay.

It was a split decision in 12 rounds in the international elimination series to crown a successor to the uncrowned Clay.

Patterson, no longer young at 32, said recently that the manner in which he met defeat might determine his future actions, apparently meaning that he would quit if knocked out or badly punished.

Patterson was floored twice by Quarry but was up quickly both times and suffered no physical damage.

Quarry was jubilant over the decision. He conceded Patterson hurt him once with an overhand right in the ninth round. The 22-year-old Quarry had no comment about any future plans.

Language Barrier Was Big Problem

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Confusion at the language barrier added to the woes of athletes, officials, visitors and reporters at the Pre-Olympic Games.

Although the Mexican Organizing Committee had been hiring talented translators and interpreters for months to work through 1968 Games, there are still too few.

"What did he say?" and "What does that mean?" repeated in a variety of tongues, were common questions among the polyglot gatherings of 57 nationalities.

Exaggerated smiles and sign language were the alternatives to despair in some conversations. There was also a lot of head-shaking, nodding and bows.

Some results were announced at events only in Spanish, understood by only a few of the European and Asian visitors. When the other two official Olympic languages—French and English—were used they sometimes differed in the translation.

"Even the United Nations has trouble finding good translators," explains one Olympic official. "We hope to have epough before the 1968 Olympic Games."

Indiana Is Surprising Experts With Exceptional Performance On Gridiron

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The University of Indiana, year after year one of those football teams voted least likely to succeed, is demanding a recount.

The unbelievable Hoosiers, college football's version of the Boston Red Sox, have won their first six games, and the balloting last week placed them 10th in the Associated Press rankings.

With another weekly vote coming up, the Hoosiers are likely to climb even higher after whomping Arizona 42-7 last Saturday.

Any shifting in the Top Ten was made probable by Oklahoma State's stunning 10-7 victory over third-ranked Colorado and Mississippi's 14-13 verdict over ninth-rated Houston. The other seven teams, with idle second-ranked UCLA, got through the weekend intact, although some of them had narrow escapes.

Southern California, No. 1, overpowered Oregon 28-6, North Carolina State, No. 5, handled Duke 28-7, Georgia, No. 6, manhandled Kentucky 31-7 and Purdue, No. 7, wiped out Iowa 41-22.

Tennessee, No. 4, had its hands full beating Louisiana State 17-14, and Wyoming, No. 8, had trouble edging Arizona State 15-13.

Quarterback Harry Gonso and Mike Perry led Indiana to its highest points total in 18 years. Gonso ran one yard for a score and set up another with a 38-yard pass before Perry engineered the last four scores, passing 73 yards to Jade Butcher for one. Butcher, a halfback, caught another TD pass, giving him an Indiana record of nine for the season.

USC raised its record to 7-0 despite an ankle injury that sidelined O.J. Simpson in the third period. The Trojans led 14-0 by then.

Jim Donnan fired two touchdown passes that were enough behind North Carolina State's stingy defense, giving the Wolfpack a 7-0 mark, and Georgia, 5-1, grabbed five fumbles and intercepted five passes to halt Kentucky.

Purdue, 5-1, unable to go to the Rose Bowl this year after playing there last season, routed Iowa on Leroy Keyes' four TDs.

Tennessee, 4-1, left itself the only unbeaten team in the Southeastern Conference on Karl Kremser's 33-yard field goal with one minute to play after LSU had made up a 14-0 deficit.

Wyoming, 7-0, got by on Jerry Depoyster's three field goals, the last with 2:37 left setting an NCAA career record of 30.

Colorado lost for the first time when Oklahoma State scored the first time it got the ball and added a third-quarter field goal by Craig Kessler.

Two fumbles led to Mississippi touchdowns, but Ken Heberl's missed extra point try after a fourth-quarter TD finally felled Houston.

Harvard lost to Dartmouth 23-21, East Carolina was beaten by The Citadel 21-19 and Tulsa was shocked by Southern Illinois 16-13, cutting the undefeated list of major teams to seven. Five are in the Top Ten with Dartmouth and Virginia Tech, which stopped West Virginia 20-7, the others.

Notre Dame and Alabama made another bid to reenter the Top Ten as the Irish tripped Michigan 24-12 and the Crimson nudged Clemson 13-10.

Season Is Complete Loss For Hoople

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE

Hallo, again, gentle readers! With the season now a complete loss for me, I have decided to turn Pollyanna in an effort to rid myself of the dark thoughts that hound me over the weekend. Never have I seen teams betray their own records as often as this season!

Things have reached such a sorry pass for me that Zeke, a regular boarder here, drubbed me for the first time since I can recall. Zeke has been a particular patsy of mine for several years now. Egad! I haven't had to buy the coffee for ages! Harrumph!

It is lessons such as this that lead toward my thinking that a change in outlook would best suit the final three weeks of the contest. Herewith, I declare my temperament changed.

I'm happy to announce that Betty Kay Alvord, Twin Falls, fleeced all of us last week, wound up the champion and earned the $10 first prize. She missed three, as did four others, but was sharper in point predicting.

In second place is Vern Kinnear, Rupert, who wins the $5 second prize and the $2.50 third prize money goes to Mike Nix of Rupert.

Receiving honorable mentions are Jay Wardle, Burley; Robert Martin, Twin Falls; Garry Matlock, Buhl; Steve Uriguen, Paul; D. James Stevens, Paul; Agnes Martin, Twin Falls, and Dirk Surber, Buhl.

Egad! Mini-Cassia blitzed us last week.

Looking toward the happy situation of standard time, which also should help me more than somewhat since I'll be able to begin meditation at the Owl's Club earlier now, I find that some of the high school teams offer challenges. I expect Borah to welcome Capital into second place in the Southern Idaho Conference. And I have no idea whether Twin Falls can beat Pocatello or not. Them, of course, there is the playoff between Declo and Westside and my crystal ball is too clouded with emotion emanating from the two schools to get a clear picture.

And so until next week, keep a happy smile on your face and remember the Friday noon deadline.

Chicago May Play Games In Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — The Chicago White sox will play each of the other nine American League teams one regular season game next season in Milwaukee County Stadium if the league approves, the Milwaukee Brewers Baseball Club, Inc., announced Monday.

In addition to the nine championship games, an exhibition game will be played in the stadium before the start of the regular season.

Allan H. Selig, president of the group that has applied for an expansion franchise to replace the Braves, announced the White Sox arrangements at a news conference. He said it will be the first time an American League team has scheduled home championship games away from its own park.

General Trout Season Closes

BOISE — General statewide trout season ends Thursday but many waters in all sections of the state stay open for fishing for some or all species, sometimes on a year-round basis, the Idaho Fish and Game Department reminds anglers.

New fishing regulations for 1968 were established last week in Boise by the Idaho Fish and Game Commission but these do not go into effect until January 1, 1968. Current regulations do not expire until December 31.

Waters remaining open year-round, or for special fishing seasons, are listed by name and area in the 1967 regulations.

Paul Culpin, state hatchery supervisor, commented that the Department raised about 171,000 pounds more hatchery fish this year than the 1,100,000 pounds in 1966. The big difference came with the expanding of the steelhead smolt and coho salmon production. It does not include the millions of eyed salmon and steelhead eggs that were planted in artificial hatching channels in the state this year, which are expected to produce more fishing in years to come.

Idaho Preparing For Weber State

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP) — Sporting a 4-3 record for their first seven games, the University of Idaho Vandals hit the practice field here again Monday in preparation for their Big Sky conference game Saturday with Weber State.

Vandal Coach Steve Musseau said the only doubtful player for this coming game will be John Knowles, defensive end from Sandpoint, Idaho, who is still out with a knee injury. Knowles' position was filled by Kurt Miller in last Saturday's Vandal game.

"Kurt Miller showed lots of talent and could get a starting role this week against Weber," said Musseau.

Saturday's game will start at 1:30 p. m. in Ogden, Utah.

GREEN BAY PACKERS' Elijah Pitts (22) scores from the seven-yard line early in the second quarter Monday night. Coming in too late to stop him is Jim Burson (49) of the St. Louis Cardinals. The Packers defeated St. Louis 31-23. (AP wirephoto)

Hero Never Played Football Or Kicked One Until Last February

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Karl Kremser never played football in high school and had never kicked one until last February.

But Saturday he booted a 33-yard soccer-style field goal that gave Tennessee a 17-14 victory over Louisiana State, put the Volunteers in first place in the Southeastern Conference race and made them a prime post-season bowl team.

"I knew it was good the second I hit it," said Kremser of the game winning kick which came with 1:05 remaining in the bitterly fought battle.

Kremser was born in West Germany but the family came to the United States when he was 6. His father, Frederick J. Kremser, worked at various jobs in Pennsylvania and New Jersey and now sells cars in Levittown, Pa.

Karl received an appointment to the U.S. Military Academy and spent 1964 and 1965 there. He was a high jumper — 6 feet 10 — on the Army track team but got disenchanted with military routine and decided he wanted to leave.

Army track Coach Carl Crowell, who once coached at Tennessee, told him about the Volunteer track program. So Kremser wrote Tennessee track Coach Chuck Rohe and asked him for a chance.

"I wanted more action as a high jumper," Kremser recalled. "Army doesn't let its men compete much. I had read about Richmond Flowers (Tennessee footballer and hurdler).

"I talked to Coach Rohe at an AAU meet in New York. He invited me down. He said I could wait on tables and see how things went. So, I came down last fall. I waited on tables and put in a year of residence.

"I had played soccer in high school. I was just curious whether I could kick or not."

Kremser said one of the Vol trackmen had an old football and he went out on a practice field last February and began to kick it. One day a football player saw him and told George Cafego, Vol assistant coach who directs the kickers.

Allison And Lorenzen May Be Great Team

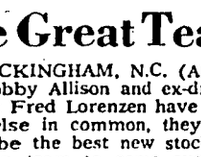

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP) — If Bobby Allison and ex-driving great Fred Lorenzen have nothing else in common, they may just be the best new stock car racing team to come over the hill in quite a spell.

Allison, a family man with four children, drove playboy bachelor Lorenzen's Ford Fairlane to an impressive victory Sunday in one of the South's toughest big races, the American 500 at saucer-shaped North Carolina Motor Speedway.

The two got together only last Monday, Lorenzen as the owner of the spanking new race car, and Allison as the driver selected to take it through its maiden voyage. It was Allison's third factory-backed car of the season. None of the other jobs panned out.

Allison, of Hueytown, Ala., finished just over a lap ahead of David Pearson of Spartan, S.C., who took over the factory Ford that Lorenzen vacated because of ulcers in May. It was Pearson's fourth second-place finish in big races this season.

Packers Come From Behind, Down Cards

By BEN BROWN
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Travis Williams returned a kickoff 93 yards for a touchdown and old pros Bart Starr and Boyd Dowler teamed on an 80-yard touchdown drive as Green Bay rolled from behind to down St. Louis 31-23 in a National Football League game Monday night.

St. Louis, getting two long touchdown passes from 23-year-old quarterback Jim Hart, had a 20-17 lead going into the final period.

The victory gave Green Bay, the No. 1 team in the Western Conference's Central Division, a 5-1-1 record. St. Louis dropped to 4-3 in the Eastern Conference's Central Division. St. Louis, New York and Cleveland now are in a three-way tie for the division lead.

Jim Bakken's second field goal, an eight-yard boot after the Packers held St. Louis at the Green Bay one, set up Williams' touchdown dash. He took the kickoff following the field goal and sped up the middle to score in the opening minutes of the fourth quarter.

St. Louis, still moving the ball well against Green Bay at midfield, drove to the Packers' 25 where Bakken tried another field goal. This time the kick was just wide to the right.

Then the Starr-to-Dowler combination hit on passes of 10, 18 and a five-yard touchdown toss to put the game out of reach.

Herb Adderly scored the first Green Bay touchdown on a 12-yard pass interception. Elijah Pitts bulled over from the seven for another.

Hart hit rookie Dave Williams on scoring passes of 49 and 48 yards for St. Louis' only touchdowns.

Bakken had three field goals and Don Chandler kicked one for Green Bay.

The Packers had a touchdown almost before the capacity crowd of 49,792 fans had settled in their seats. On the first play from scrimmage, defensive back Adderly intercepted a Hart pass at the St. Louis 12 and scooted into the end zone.

After an exchange of punts, St. Louis had the ball on the Packers' 49. With Johnny Roland carrying eight of 10 plays, the Cardinals drove to the Green Bay four. But, on third down, Roland could pick up only a yard.

Bakken came in to kick his first field goal, a 12-yard boot. This marked the 18th consecutive NFL game in which Bakken has kicked at least one three-pointer.

The Packers roared right back to get their second touchdown. Starr hit flanker Carroll Dale for a 16-yard toss and Dowler for 10 as the Packers' drove to the St. Louis seven from where Pitts went off left tackle to score as the second quarter opened. The drive covered 62 yards in seven plays.

Hart then hit Williams at the Green Bay 32. Williams broke from the Packer defenders and streaked into the end zone. The play covered 49.

The next time the Cardinals got the ball, Hart passed to tight end Jackie Smith on a 24-yard play. Then, when the drive sputtered at the Green Bay 15, Bakken kicked a 22-yard field goal.

After Green Bay failed to move the ball, the Cardinals had a first down on their 39. Hart hit Smith on a 13-yard pass, then on second down, with 35 seconds left to the half, Hart again hit Williams, this time on a 48-yard scoring play to give the Cardinals a temporary 20-14 halftime lead.

BRIDGE

By Jacoby

PART SCORE IS OFTEN HANDICAP

Just how much is a part score worth in a rubber bridge game? Sometimes it turns out to be a disadvantage. Unquestionably it is harder to reach a co-operative slam when you have a 90 or 60 point score on your side of the ledger.

When you have no score, a new suit response is always a one round force. Should it still be a one round force when it is a bid of game? Bridge books are noticeably silent on the whole subject of part score bidding. There is a good reason for this. Each part score presents its own problems. You just don't have enough space in a bridge book to cover every part score from 20 to 90.

In yesterday's column, we showed North and South making three spades. Today we show the next hand of the rubber.

We are going to answer one of the above questions right now. We do not play a new suit response as a force when it is a bid of game, but we do ask our partner to bid again if he can raise our suit or make some positive move. We just don't want him to rebid his own suit with a fair suit and a poorish hand.

North knew that his partner's two diamond bid was not a force. North also should have realized that either three diamonds would be a safe contract or that if South couldn't make three diamonds, then opponents would probably be able to do something in hearts or clubs. In other words North had nothing to lose by bidding three diamonds, and he might gain a slam bonus.

Assuming that North had bid three diamonds, South would have bid again and we think that six diamonds would be reached. Of course they might have reached seven — which would be one trick too high because spades were going to break 4-2.

They should have reached six, even with the part score handicap. They would almost surely have arrived there had they been bidding from scratch.

Ugly? Ah No, Not To Her Beau

Dear Walt: May I have your opinion on something? I am a senior in high school, a female, and I am very ugly. Besides that I have a slight speech impediment. UGH! I might as well go on: I love a boy who is two years younger than I and we are going steady. But as the days go by, this fear has been growing in me. Does a boy really feel embarrassed going with a girl as ugly as I am? Is he just feeling sorry for me? Or could he really like me? And if so, why? He goes to a different school and a lot of cute girls go there too. So why does he pick me?—Knows Myself.

Dear Knows: I won't give you any of that "beauty is skin-deep" jazz, or try to convince you that looks are immaterial to a fellow. But every now and then there is a girl with so much on the ball, so kind a disposition, and so bright a sense of humor, that looks become a completely second-place consideration. If the boy seeks your company, you must have something. Granted, a sophomore-senior romance is likely to fade in time. But his interest should encourage you to make yourself into a fascinating woman like Eleanor Roosevelt — a lady whose appeal will blossom, not fade, as the years pass!—Walt.

SEEKS RULES FOR SPANKING

Dear Walt: I read with interest the letter in which the 13-year-old boy complained about being spanked bare-bottomed. I had the same problem. I am now 15, but until I had my 14th birthday, my dad would turn me across his knee after I'd removed both pants and underpants and spank me until I could hardly sit. Now I no longer receive this punishment, but my three younger brothers do (ages 9, 10 and 12) and I am afraid one of them will not be able to take the embarrassment and will break with my dad.

Because of this, I showed him the letter in your column and he said he would like to see Walt publish a set of rules as to what he thinks of spanking (when it should be used, at what age it should stop, should bare-bottom spanking be used, and what instrument should be used). He respects you because of the sensibleness of your advice and said if you did this, he might "change the set-up" —Needs Help.

Dear Needs: Kids mature at different rates, so instead of an age cut-off, I'd say stop spanking when the youngster develops a sense of "tomorrow." Be he 5, 7 or 9, as soon as he is able to plan ahead for a treat. ("If you're good this week, you can go to the movie Saturday"), I'd stop spanking and start withholding pleasures when he misbehaved.

Rules for spanking? (1) Use your bare hand on the youngster's bare bottom (thus your sore hand and his red seat will stop you before a spanking turns into a beating.) (2) Spank only when the child's behavior endangers himself or another person. For less severe offenses, punish him with social isolation and boredom, such as making him stand in the corner.—Walt.

BEWARE STEADY DATE

We seldom print letters from parents, but here's one that's too important to file without sharing with you.

Dear Ele and Walt: Please impress upon the upper teenage group (18-19), the cruelty implicit in leading their steady dates on to think they will become engaged and finally wed, when this is just a deception to hold on to them until school is out or some other goal is achieved. Please tell them this kind of game is sometimes shattering. This is not only cruel to one of the pair but also quite a blow to an unsuspecting parent who has become quite fond of the intended mate of her child, only to find it was a hoax on the other's part. Parents have their deep hurts over these things too.—Almost Mother-In-Law.

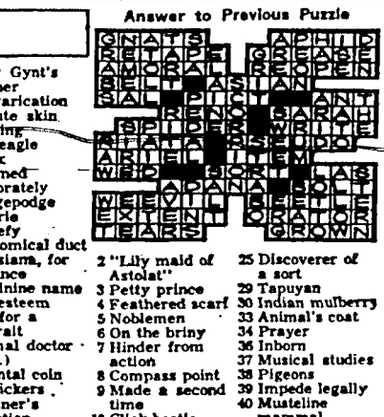

For shy guys: Ele and Walt Dulaney can help you swing that first kiss if you'll write them in care of this newspaper, requesting their newsletter, "First Kisses," to Dateline. Please enclose a dime and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Church Group To Ask For Donations

Members of the Pathfinder Club, a junior group sponsored by the Twin Falls Seventh-Day Adventist Church, will knock on doors Tuesday night and trick-or-treat for canned goods or other articles that can be used in Thanksgiving baskets.

Pastor John Boyd said the Pathfinders "believe in giving a treat instead of a trick, and plan to visit Twin Falls homes between 6 and 7 p.m. Tuesday."

The Seventh - Day Adventist Health and welfare society will distribute baskets to the needy on Thanksgiving, he said.

Anyone wanting to help in the project by donating may call the Adventist welfare director at 733-7587, he said.

Malta Plans Homecoming For 1968

MALTA — Plans for the 1968 homecoming were made at a meeting of new officers of the Raft River High School Alumni Association, Bill Pettingill, Burley, new president, said Monday.

Next year's event was tentatively set for Sept. 28, 1968, depending on the football schedule. This year's homecoming celebration was evaluated and class reunions were planned for the classes of 1938, 1948, 1958 and 1968.

Jay Haper, Malta, is vice president; Mrs. Ronald Fowles, Burley, secretary, and Mrs. Alvin Carpenter, Elba, assistant secretary. Also attending were Jay Black, Almo, past president, and committee members, Jay Ward, Malta; Mrs. William Tracy, Almo; Mike Spencer, Yost, Utah, Raft River student body president, and Ephriam Miller, Raft River high school principal.

Lt. Col. William Claiborn, Air Force Academy liaison officer for Southern Idaho, Monday said high school seniors interested in entering the academy should apply now for entry.

His assignment is to counsel young men concerning academy admission requirements and entrance examination, and added Idaho's delegation to Congress has already started screening applicants for the class entering in the fall of 1968.

He said interested seniors may contact him at 423-5525 in Kimberly for information.

Former Resident Dies In Ogden

OGDEN—Dallas W. Thompson, 47, Ogden, died Friday at his home of a heart ailment.

He was born March 5, 1920, at Vernal, Utah, the son of Morris W. and Hattie Davis Thompson. He had lived in Twin Falls for many years until moving to Ogden about 10 years ago.

He was married May 29, 1967, at Elko, Nev., to Mae Williamson, and was a veteran of World War II.

Survivors include his widow, and two children by a former marriage, Charles Thompson, Henderson, Nev., and Janet Thompson, Layton, Utah.

Funeral services will be conducted at 10 a.m. Wednesday at the Lindquist Mortuary Chapel. Final rites will be held at Sunset Memorial Park, Twin Falls.

March Of Dimes Child Is Chosen

NEW YORK (AP) — Blond-haired Timothy Faas, 4, who wants to be Tarzan when he grows up, is the national March of Dimes child for 1968, the health organization announced Sunday.

The Whittier, Calif., boy, born with spine and foot defects, will tour the country during the 30th annual March of Dimes fund-raising campaign next January, Basil O'Connor, March of Dimes president, said. The funds go to fight birth defects.

Timmy, who has been treated at a March of Dimes Birth Defects Center since infancy, is one of 250,000 American children born every year with birth defects.

Buhl Business Women Host District Meet

BUHL — The Buhl Business and Professional Women hosted the district convention last week at the R and R cafe. Mrs. Bertha Smith served as registration chairman assisted by Mrs. Mae Burkhart.

A smorgasbord luncheon was served to the 72 ladies attending. The theme for the meeting was "All Systems Go." Table decorations included fall flower arrangements and individual miniature rockets used at each plate.

"Tote" bags made by the local club members and filled with various products donated by local merchants were used as favors for each member present. A floral arrangement of fall flowers for the head table as well as corsages for the local BPW officers were made and donated by Bonnie Johnson, a former club member.

De Marlow, president of the local club, gave the welcome address, and the response was given by Mable Sanborn, Twin Falls president. Mae Burkhart gave the invocation.

The business meeting was conducted by Doris Grimsman, district director from Burley. Reports from BPW club presidents attending were given from Buhl, Twin Falls, Mountain Home, Emmett, Pocatello, Soda Springs, Burley, Jerome, Rupert, Gooding, and Sun Valley.

Entertainment was provided by the "Nobles".

Louise Johnson, Emmett, state president, gave her message and an outline of projects to be completed for the coming year so that each club could be assured of making the theme, "All Systems Go" a success.

Other state and district officers present and giving short messages at the convention were Elsa Brodenheimer, president-elect, Mountain Home; Helen Lucke, Gooding, vice-president; Garnet Barenberg, Emmett, corresponding secretary; Gula Cochran, Pocatello, treasurer; Doris Boylan, Twin Falls, recording secretary; Josephine Kroush, Emmett, director-at-large, and Beth Jones, Burley, district secretary.

Prizes were awarded to Elsa Bodenheimer, Lillian Gates, Bessie Standlee, Mary Jane Cox, Margaret Dunham, Wilma Buhler, Jessie Reynolds, Marian Langdon and Mary Irving. The prizes were made and donated to the club by Vivian Daiss, local club member.

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD
CLASSIFIED WANT AD

1—IT'S ALWAYS BEST to start your advertisement with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment or room for rent or property for sale start your advertisement with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete or definite information. One of the very most important aspects of any advertisement is to include the price.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always insert your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, give a preferred time to have prospects contact you.

4—THE GREATEST READER ATTENTION can be secured for your advertisement by using consecutive insertions. Play safe—a seven-day order is best and costs less! There are also very special monthly rates for those who are desirous of keeping their name and offering before the public every day. You can stop your ad in the event of results, and then you pay only for the days it is published.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you would like to know (about your offer). The answer you give will make a good Classified Ad.

6—CLASSIFIED readers are already interested in buying your used or new merchandise. These people have the money and are already in the market to buy. So give them every advantage you can with good ad copy.

7—WANT ADS THAT FAIL to bring satisfaction do so, not through any lack of readership, but because they are often carelessly worded and do not contain enough information to get prompt action.

8—TO PLACE YOUR ADVERTISEMENT in the Twin Falls newspaper, where you reach the greatest Classified Want Ad audience in Magic Valley, call 733-0931 or one of the Times-News' free phone numbers if you live in an area outside Twin Falls and ask for an Ad-taker. It's as easy as calling a friend because our Ad-takers are schooled to be helpful in such matters. Remember, you get 7 days for the price of 5.

STATEMENT:

Many will wonder why we have prolonged the closing of our Jerome store. A misunderstanding in the duration of our lease brought about the delay. Our lease will expire in the near future. We are, therefore, again offering to the people of Magic Valley tremendous savings on home furnishings and floor coverings. We will offer our entire stock in the Jerome store and our warehouses at greatly reduced prices.

When the liquidation of our Jerome store is completed, Mr. Herrick M. Drake and Mrs. Gertie Talbot will be at our Twin Falls store to serve their many friends.

We will then endeavor to expand our Twin Falls store and continue to offer excellent values on quality merchandise from that central location for all Magic Valley. We will not knowingly be undersold on merchandise of equal quality.

We appreciate the fine patronage of the people of Jerome and the North Side, also the friendly cooperation of the community during the past 25 years.

We invite you to visit our Twin Falls store, where it will be a pleasure to greet you and serve you.
